JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Kissinger's pre-Nixon peace efforts; sounded Ho out through intermediary; interior lets mine men keep windfall

DR. NORMAN BROWN of Delta Research Center in Portageville examines an oilseed sunflower, subject of experiments in cyst nematode control.

Sunflower May Fight Soybean Nematode

By DENISE BLANKENSHIP

While much research remains to be done, the oilseed sunflower could help alleviate the cyst nematode problem in soybeans in Southeast Missouri.

Dr. Norman Brown of the Missouri Delta Research Center of the University of Missouri Extension Service at Portageville has been experimenting with the oilseed sunflower since 1968.

Dr. Brown explains the problem:

"The cyst nematode feeds on the soybean plant root. Each year soybeans are consistently planted in an acreage, the incidence of the parasite increases. When non-host crops — such as sunflowers are rotated through the field the nematode's growth is checked.

"However," he continued, "much research must be done. We have to learn what diseases affect the plant, how to control bird damage and develop hybrids."

Dr. Brown says he cannot estimate economics of the sunflower right now.

"There's no way I can say whether it is more economical than corn or wheat. But I know if it is going to be a good rotation crop that farmers will use, it will have to make money."

Elmer Carlson of the Carlson Sunflower Company is promoting the over- sized daisy more avidly.

Carlson says a farmer can expect a ton of sunflower seeds for every 100 bushels of corn. And his company will provide seed and a guaranteed contract at $84 per ton.

How this price compares with corn and wheat depends on the market, yield and investments, such as fertilizer and weed and pest control.

So far about 1,000 acres in this area have been planted in or committed to the oilseed sunflower. This variety is different from the type grown many years ago in the Bootheel for birdseed.

The oilseed was developed by the Russians and is used in salad and cooking oils. World- wide, in vegetable oil production, the oilseed sunflower is second only to soybeans among the eight vegetable oils.

While the American variety has an oil content of 40 per cent, Carlson said some Russian varieties are 60 per cent oil. The higher oil content is obviously more profitable since more oil can be extracted from fewer seeds.

Carlson's goal is to convince enough farmers in 50 counties of Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee to put at least 300 acres per county in sunflowers — enough acreage to earn $1 million.

If his plan works, Carlson will use the monies to hire at least two sunflower research scientists and assistants to work at the Delta Research Center in Portageville.

Operating expenses for research would be paid from interest on the $1 million, leaving the principal intact, Carlson added.

He seems confident that farmers will be handling much more acreage in sunflowers, but both he and Dr. Brown recognize questions and problems must be worked out before the oilseed can be widely accepted and produced.

While most U.S. production is in North Dakota, California and the South, Russians produce half the total world production. Other countries producing seed include Romania, Iran, Argentina, Mexico and Canada.

The largest farms in the United States are in the Corn Belt. George Henderson, district director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, explained how a farmer in Southeast Missouri could plant sunflowers on set- aside land:

"The farmer must certify his acreage between now and July 3 and tell the ASCS office what he has planted and intends to plant. If this includes a set- aside crop such as sunflowers, a note is made and the farmer's payments on cotton or grain are reduced by the county rate, $8 in most counties and $9.10 in Mississippi county."

Whatever the outcome, from a female point of view, a field of sunflowerss is certainly esthetically appealing!

Spainhower Pledges Depository Changes

James I. Spainhower of Jefferson City, candidate for Democratic nomination for state treasurer, was in Scott County Thursday and said he was piedging to the people of Missouri that under his administration the policy he will follow in selecting banks as state depositories "will it be in the best interest of the public?"

Spainhower declared, in a visit to Sikeston, "I think we must restore public confidence in all areas of state government, and a good starting point is the coice of state depositories."

He pledged that "policies will not be a guiding factor" but rather the question will be "is the placing of state funds in any bank of economic benefit to the community?"

"I feel that rural or other areas which may have some special problem, needing an infusion of extra capital should be due special consideration, and I shall take such into account," he declared.

The Democratic candidate, a former representative from Saline County, declared, " As treasurer I will take immediate control of the state's collection accounts which are deposited in non-interest bearing bank accounts. A few banks now having such accounts have abused their position by not transmitting the funds to the state treasury as promptly as required. I will stop this practice and any bank which violates the regulation will immediately cease to be a state depository."

$6 Billion Farm Income Loss

NFO Charges Ag Paper Recommends Abandonment Of Price Supports

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP) — The National Farmers Organization charged today that an internal Agriculture Treatment paper recommends progressive abandonment of all federal price supports with a resulting $6 billion loss in net farm income.

The report was delivered to the Democratic Party Platform hearing on farm problems by Erhardt Pingsten, former president of the militant NFO.

He was one of about 50 witnesses scheduled at the daylong session.

The paper, titled "New Directions for U.S. Agricultural policy," was prepared by the department's "Young Executives Committee, Pfingsten testified. The committee is made up of 15 administraive officers of the agency, he said.

It suggests abandonment of the support programs for wheat, cotton, corn, other feed grains, dairy products, wool, sugar peanuts, tobacco—"everything given any price support," the witness said.

He reported Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has continued the Young Executives Committee set up by his predecessor, Clifford M. Hardin. Its report has been submitted, Pfingsten said, but has been kept under wraps until a copy was obtained by the NFO this week.

"The Young Executives" proposal has not been made official policy, but its persistent reappearance, each time from a source closer to top policy making leels, makes it important that it be dealt with without eequivocation," the witness said. "It is time that it is buried once and for all, and party platforms are an excellent place to do it."

Besides vhe five-year phaseout of price supports, Pfingsten said, the Young Executives' plan calls for discontinuing farmers Home Administration real estate and operating loans, the phasing out of dairy products purchase programs and other buying programs, reducing non-recourse loan rates to "disaster level;" for wheat and feed grains and zero for other crops.

Farmers put out of business would be eligible for President Nixon's proposed family assistance plan, the witness added.

The proposal was termed "unconscionable" by Rep. James Abourezk of South Dakota, who presided over the platform panel's morning session.

In his opening remarks, Abourezk called for a platform designed to stabilize rural population and reject "the dominatnt administration theory that the farmily farm is a relic of the past.

"We must encourage a populaton policy that keeps peole in the countryside, relieving the oppressive crush in metropolitan America," Abourezk said, "and to do all this we simply have got to view our rural programs as part of a national policy that puts humans ahead of conglomerate profit."

The chairman told the crowded hearing room he was confident the 150-member full platform committee willldraft a document for the national convention "which says bery bluntly that rural America is dying and it is the job of the etire nation to avert that death."

"If we say that and if we back up that funcamental understanding with programs that go to the gut of the economic plight of rural America then we will truly deserve to win, and we will win."

Fred V. Heinkel, chairman of the national Farm Coalition, presented to the Democratic policy makers a statement adopted June 5 at a conference of that federation of 28 national farm organizations.

C'ville Man Shot To Death

CARUTHERSVILLE — John L. Jones, 31, of Caruthersville was shot in the neck with a pistol and killed Thursday about 1:30 a.m. at Paul's Place on Vest Street.

Police are holding Olian Isom, Jr., also of Caruthersville in connection with the shooting. Isom is manager of Paul's Place. Authorities said there were several witnesses, but details of the shooting have not been released.

No charges have been filed against Isom.

Nine Cases Heard In City Court

A small number of arrests during the past few weeks finally made an impact on the City Court docket. Only nine cases were heard Thursday night.

James Brent, 1102 Osage, charged with two counts of maintaining a public nuisance, had his cases continued until next Thursday. He was brought to court after failing to clean up a junkyard he owns on Osage.

Margie Musgrove, 407 Dorothy, peace disturbance, forfeited bond of $35. James W. Morrison, 221 W. Kathleen, assault and battery, pleaded not guilty and trial was set for next Wednesday. Donnie Joe Odell of East Prairie, careless and imprudent driving, fined $60.

William Dale Gardner, 707 Troy, destroying city property, dismissed on payment of court costs. Jessie Leeman Hodge, Jr. of Dittmer, public intoxication, fined $19. David Harris, 224 Felker, public intoxication, fined $19.

Daniel J. Hodge of Morley Box 251, driving while intoxicated, case continued to July 19.

Not Stealing, Just Moving

A camper trailer was not stolen Saturday night from Propst Mobile Home lot on East Malone Avenue, police say.

They had received a report that three men were seen hooking the trailer to a pickup truck and driving away. Police now say the man who had just purchased the trailer had asked the men to pick it up for him. He has failed to notify Propst officials that he was taking the trailer.

Dexter Man Hurt In Mishap

DEXTER — Willard Smith, 61, Route Three, was injured at 6:55 p.m. Thursday three miles southwest of here on Five Mile Road when his car went out of control and overturned in a ditch.

He was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital with a back injury and cuts on the face and head.

Child Injured

Donald Blanton, the six-year-old son of Mrs. Martha Kim, was struck by a car at 5:30 p.m. Thursday in front of 214 West North Street. He was treated for a cut on the left leg and for bruises and released from Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Police reports this morning were incomplete, but apparently the child rode his bicycle in front of a car driven by Ora Segers of Bell City , Route one, as she was driving west on North Street.

Police investigation is continuing.

For Kidnap Trial

Test Ordered For Achter

CHARLESTON — A psychiatric examination to determine competency to stand trial was ordered Thursday for Leslie Allen Achter of East Prairie by Magistrate T.J. Brown, Jr.

Achter will be examined by Dr. Carter Fenton, D.O., by June 22 and will appear again in Magistrate Court June 27. He is charged with the kidnapping of Mary Cooper of East Prairie on May 18.

The probation of Shane Bostic of Wyatt, granted June 1 on a disturbing the peace charge was revoked following her appearance Thursday on a common assault charge. Judge Brown sentenced her to 30 days on the assault charge to run concurrently with a 60-day sentence for disturbing the peace.

A preliminary hearing for George Robert Scott, address unavailable, charged with burglary involving breaking and entering, was set for June 28. Scott is accused of attempting to enter the Budweiser Cafe on May 28. He remains in jail in lieu of $500 bond.

Appearing on misdemeanor charges were Roy B. Marshall of Sikeston, speeding $26; Willis Ray Harris of Charleston, failure to yield right of way, $26; Antonio Moreno of East Prairie, no operator's license, $21; James T. Bruce of East Prairie , failure to exercise highest degree of care, $36; Jimmy Lynn Gargus of Bertrand, no operator's license, $16; and Henry Williams of Charleston, peace disturbance $25; George Greer of Charleston received a 60-day suspended sentence and was placed on one-year probation. Condition of his probation is he obey the law and pay costs of $21.

Judge Brown set July 7 as trial date for Robert Dale Urban of Sikeston, charged with possession of intoxicating beer in a change of venue case from New Madrid County. Hugh David Whiteaker of Sikeston will stand trial on the same charge July 13.

Cases continued to June 22 include Margie Lou Lindley of East Prairie, no operator's license; Billy Ray Nolen of Charleston, driving while license was revoked; Charles Clark of Charleston, selling intoxicating liquor without a license; Dennis Lee Morgan of Charleston, driving while license was suspended; Larry Oscar Gammons East Prairie, driving while intoxicated and driving while operator's license was suspended.

A felonious assault charge against Monroe Sharp of Charleston was continued to Thursday, and felony charges of stealing against Stanley Lee Davidson of East Prairie and Jimmie Wilson of Anniston were also continued to Thursday.

Civil cases continued to Thursday include Ponder Chevrolet-Buick Co. versus Larry Archie, suit on installment contract for $493.57; and an account suit for $64.24 brought by James and Willard Bomar, doing business as Western Auto Store, against Earl Merryman. An account suit for $172.06 brought by E.T. Small, doing business as Small's L.P. Gas Co., against Danny Presson was continued to July 13.

A charge of careless and imprudent driving against Lois Adolph Woods of East Prairie was continued to July 13.

Airline Pilots Plan Worldwide Strike Monday

NEW YORK (AP) — The pilots in 64 nations, including the United States, will strike for 24 hours Monday to protest hijacking dangers, the International Federation of Airline Pilots Associations said today.

In Washingto n earlier, the U.S. Air Line Pilots Association ordered its members to take part in a worldwide protest.

"This drastic action is the result of the lack of effective international measures to stem the tide of unlawful interference with civil aviation and constitutes a strong expression of deep concern and solidarity on the part of the world's aviation community," federation president Capt. Ola Forsberg, told a news conference.

The action by U.S. pilots was to take effect at 2 a.m. June 19, John J. O'Donnell, ALPA president, told a Washington news conference.

The international federation, representing 50,000 pilots said on June 8 it would suspend civil aviation services unless the United Nations Security Council took effective action against hijackings.

"Under law, air line pilots are charged with the responsibility for the lives of the passengers entrusted to them," O'Donnell said.

Bertrand Man Jailed

BENTON — Clarence Wesley Butler, 32, of Bertrand Box 189 is in Scott County Jail today charged with disturbing the peace and displaying a dangerous and deadly weapon while intoxicated.

Sheriff John Dennis said Butler was chasing his wife with a rifle when he was spotted by a neighbor Bobby Laseter. When Laseter tried to stop him Butler shoved the gun into a car bumper and bent the barrel apparently "to show how mean he was," Dennis said. Other neighbors arrived took the gun away from Butler, and called Dennis.

Butler lives on the R.J. Swank farm between Blodgett and Miner.

Food Chains Forecast Consumer Price Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of the nation's food chains are telling consumer groups to expect another big rise in food prices, particularly meats, in c oming weeks.

The Price Commission, saying that it is concerned about a possible sharp surge in retail food prices because of an increase at the wholesale level, is scheduled to meet to discuss the situation next Wednesday.

A commission spokesman said that a number of options are under consideration.

A spokesman for the food chains, Timothy D. McEnroe, public relations director with the National Association of Food Chains, said that big food stores have been absorbing a wholesale increase in prices of food and meat for eight or nine weeks.

He said the association's board has been meeting with several consumer groups and telling them that retail outlets are not to blame if the price of food should rise again sharply as expected.

"It will be a matter of almost pure luck if they don't go up," McEnroe said.

The food chains are now paying $60 per hundredweight per beef carcass, "the highest in memory," McEnroe said. He noted that that was $2 over the high in February when Treasury Secretary John B. Connally called in big chain stores to talk about rising food prices.

The Price Commission has discussed food prices in recent weeks, but it has recommended no action so far. Among the options under consideration are direct control of food prices and rationing, two routes that the Nixon administration wants o avoid, sources said.

McEnroe said that retail food chains did not want another situation like last February when the food chains were called in to meet with Connally. He said that it probably wouldn't change the situation.

As for any possible action that the Price Commission would take, he said, "Any control system other than the one we have now would just be disastrous." He said he saw no precipitous action by the Price Commission against food and meat prices.

McEnroe conceded that food chains might decide to absorb an increasing amount of the higher wholesale food costs because of possible pressure from the government or for public relations reasons.

Thieves Break Into Dexter Area Home

DEXTER — Stoddard County sheriff's department and the highway patrol are investigating a breakin at the C. W. Wiggs home, one mile north of here. The breakin occurred sometime between Monday and noon Thursday while the Wiggs family was away on vacation.

Entry was gained by breaking a lock on the rear door of the home. Items taken were a portable television, men and women's clothing, a pair of binoculars, one-karat diamond ring, a pair of cufflinks and a large assortment of costume jewelry.

The Duke of Windsor is now dead and buried. We were always a great admirer of the Duke, but one thing we couldn't understand was after the Duke's mother died, Queen Mary, why Queen Elizabeth and the rest of the kinfolks in England refused to have him come back to England. It seemed to me that Queen Elizabeth would not be Queen if Edward kept on with his kingdom, why they wouldn't have him beats me, because he was really the top dog in England for many years and I believe he still had the most English people's heart with him.

MEN'S
LIB

Are American men ready to join their sisters in the women's liberation movement in calling for the breakdown of sex-role stereotypes? "Never!" say the members of the Society for the Emancipation of the American Male (SEAM), who hope "to restore the American male to his rightful place at the head of the family." To further the cause, SEAM has declared Father's Day, Sunday, June 18, as Male Emancipation Day. Kahlil Samra, co-founder of SEAM, believes that the whole range of psychiatric problems from alcoholism to juvenile deliquency is less prevalent in patriarchies "such as Italy, Greece, Japan, and India, where men still rule their homes."

Many women find it difficult to understand why men are reluctant to share the strains and burdens -- the ulcers and the migraines -- that accure to the head of the household. Man's reward for bearing the responsibilities of "bringing home the bacon" is a life expectancy approximately eight years shorter than his wife's. Women's liberationists contend that men, no less than women, are trapped by predefined roles which limit their outlook, occupations, and emotions.

"Men cannot play freely or cry freely or be gentle, because these are feminine, not masculine, traits," says Dr. Jack Sawyer, a psychologist with Harvard University's department of social relations. "But a fuller concept of humanity recognizes that all men and women are potentially both strong and weak, active and passive, and that these and other human characteristsic are not the province of one sex."

Numberous men continue to view women's liberation as a threat to their masculinity rather than the source of their emancipation. By taking this attitude, women's liberationists say, men fail to see the irony of seeking emancipation through confinement in the role of protector / provider. "The first significant discovery we shall make as we racket along our female road to freedom," Germaine Greer wrote in The Female Eunuch, "is that men are not free, and they will seek to make this an argument why nobody should be free. We can only reply that slaves enslave their masters and by securing our own manumission we may show men the way that they could follow when they jump off their own treadmill."

WE'VE BEEN INGORED

United Auto Workers' bosses at their recent convention adopted a resolution tabbing the National Right to Work Committee a "fanatic, right wing" organization because we are pushing for legislation that would end compulsory unionism!

But is it "fanatic" to believe every American ought to have the right to be gainfully employed without having to fork over part of his pay check to a union boss? And is it "right wing" to believe that each worker's individual freedom is of more importance than filling union coffers? Does individual freedom smack of the authoritarianism associated with right-wingdom?

From the point of view of the radical left the answer seems to be "yes" the freedom to decide for one's self is indeed "fanatic" and "right wing."

M. Stanton Evans, editor of the Indianapolis News and CBS "Spectrum" commentator, says the reason is that the self-designated liberals have given the union membership problem over to the "experts," and the experts have decided the American worker simply isn't capable of knowing what's best for himself and therefore isn't qualified to decide, "Should I join or should I not join the union?"

To feel differently than the experts, which we most emphatically do, makes Right to Work advocates vulnerable to this type of name calling.

Well, if this is the reason, we enjoy being called fanatical and right wing — because we definitely do not subscribe to the radical theory that the American worker isn't capable of deciding for himself.

Furthermore, we question the right of many self-proclaimed "liberal" spokesmen to continue wearing their titles. Because while babbling away at no end about civil rights, individual liberties, equality under the law, and the Bill of Rights, they have summarily turned a deaf ear on the plea of millions of workers to be relieved of compulsory union servitude.

Is it equality, we ask them, when a highly skilled, highly qualified worker is tossed out of his job simply because he refuses to join a union? Aren't there civil rights involved here?

We'd like to set the record straight, therefore, especially for the so-called liberals who have ignored us and by their silence have condoned the iron-fisted compulsion directed by the "experts."

Right to Work is as much their issue as ours. Right to Work is every man's issue. As Evans put it, "This is where the civil liberties battle is taking place."

The civil liberties battle is one that can wear no labels, not the "liberal" label, not the "conservative." It defies labels and name calling. What's right is right.

We thank Stan Evans, who has given us occasion to invite the long overdue interest of the more publicized "champions" of civil liberties.

And we are confident that the American people understand perfectly well who the real "fanatics" are: those who would compel working people to pay union bosses for the "privilege" of earning a living.

NATIONAL NO-FAULT
LAW

After waiting in vain for state legislatures to move forward decisively in adopting the popular form of no-fault automobile insurance, the Commerce Committee of the U. S. Senate has sensibly approved a bill providing for a national no - fault system — one which sets minimum standards for state no-fault laws and provides that if states do not enact such measures by July 1, 1975, a federal law would take effect.

Under a pure no-fault insurance plan, an injured motorist's own insurance company pays him and his passengers for medical care, lost wages, pain and suffering and property damage without regard to whose negligence (or fault) caused the accident. The system eliminates costly investigation and litigation of accidents, allows far faster payment of claims and leads to lower premiums. But largely because of the opposition of trial lawyers, only Massachusetts and Florida have adopted laws that even approach true no-fault plans.

Several other states, including Connecticut and New Jersey this year, have approved compromise plans, usually influenced by the lobbying of lawyers who want to preserve all or some of their damage claim business. The record of the past few years, however, indicates that if the nation waits for individual states to enact no-fault laws as recommended by the Nixon Administration, the system may not be countrywide for another 48 years. And even then it would have a large litigation potential built into it by lawyer-lobbyists and lawyer-legislators.

The most promising means for auto insurance reform is a federal bill like that sponsored in the Senate by Warren G. Magnuson and Philip A. Hart. Although the prospect for passage by the Senate this year is good, the House outlook is uncertain. Perhaps House members would get the message if they knew that four out of five citizens who understand the no-fault principle are in favor of it. They are fed up with the traffic jam in auto accident claims and the long and costly delays in collecting compensation. And they know it doesn't have to be that way.

NEW YORK (AP) — What or where is limbo?

We all know pretty well when we're in either heaven or hell. But what is it like to be in limbo?

In Roman Catholic theology, limbo is a place where no one is actually punished, but neither does anyone see the beatific vision, a denial which poets feel can be cruelest of all punishments. Limbo also is where the souls of unborn children dwell, and the souls of those who die before baptism.

But to most of us limbo is hard to pin down in our daily lives. It is indefinite and vague, a sensation of being lost and lonely and isolated.

We are in limbo, for example, when we are out on a limb in a situation with no one aware of our plight or in any hurry to aid us.

Here are some other possible limbos, although some bear a strong resemblance to purgatory or hell:

In earliest infancy, limbo is where you are when mother isn't cuddling you in her arms.

Limbo is sitting in a corner with a dunce cap on for being unable to spell cat in the first grade.

Limbo is where you live later in life after you scrape and save to visit Las Vegas only to drop your gambling capital there on your first big casino bet.

Limbo is being an orphan and looking through a window to watch five children in a happy home eating Thanksgiving dinner with their parents.

Limbo is where a soldier feels he is when he reads a "Dear John" letter from his sweetheart during a lull in combat.

Limbo is the time between the time you wrote your rent check and the time when your paycheck gets to the bank to cover it.

Limbo is where your visiting mother-in-law puts you when she announces you have given her such a nice time she has decided to stay another two weeks.

Limbo is where the boss puts you when he asks if you think it is fair for him to plunge the firm deeper into the red by giving the merit raise you want.

Limbo is insomnia in a double feather bed.

And limbo is where a columnist finds himself when he sits down to write a column on limbo. And dear reader, if you're still with me, look around quick. You're in limbo too.

VALUE ADDED
TAX AGAIN

The question of whether the United States should turn to a value added tax as a new source of revenues has been raised again in Washington. The United Press International reported over the weekend that members of President Nixon's Cabinet have been putting out trial balloons on the idea.

What is a "value added" tax?

Stripped to its essentials, it is a national sales tax. It differs from the present retail sales tax in that it is collected at each step of the way as an item moves from raw material to consumer goods. For example, consider a loaf of bread. The miller, the sugar refiner and the shortening processor each would sell his product to a baker, adding to the price a tax for the value he has added to it. Each of those processors would send the collected tax to the federal government. The baker would note how much value added tax he had paid and file for a refund, but would add a tax for the value he added in baking. The retailer in turn would add to his price a tax for the value of the service he performs. Finally, the consumer pays the tax as part of his price on the bread and that ends the matter.

It is an idea that has been kicking around since at least 1941, when it was proposed as a means of helping to pay for World War II. It has come up again more recently mainly because it has been adopted by many European nations which sometimes use it as a gimmick to subsidize their exports.

Tax officials discussed it frequently at their meetings during 1968, so much so that than Asssstant Secretary of Treasury Stanley S. Surrey devoted a lengthy speech at the National Association of Manufacturers annual meeting to denouncing it.

But President Nixon has mentioned the idea from time to time, and Undersecretary of Treasury Charls Walker has been a strong advocate of that form of tax.

It is getting reconsideration now partly because federal courts in several states have ruled that the property tax is an unfair way to finance schools.

If those rulings are upheld, states and communities are going to have to find new sources of school revenues. For some, including Tennessee, that is going to be difficult. The Tennessee Constitution has been interpreted as prohibiting an ordinary income tax. So about the only way new school revenues could be found, if the property tax is invalid for that purpose, would be by very steep sales or luxury-item taxes.

The Nixon administration is reported considering the value added tax now as part of the revenue sharing plan that has been stalled in Congress. The idea would be to use the value added money as refunds to each state with the understanding that it would be used for education with property taxes reduced by an equal amount.

That would be a very alluring bait for both members of Congress and the property taxpayers who feel they already have been saddled with too much of a burden. So both the value added concept and revenue sharing may fare better in Congress next year than either has in the past.

But Congress should approach this subject carefully.

The value added tax is a regressive tax, putting a heavier burden on those least able to pay. Also, it is another burden on the processors and sellers of goods, requiring a tremendous addition to their bookkeeping operations on both incoming and outgoing items. This aspect has brought strong protests already in some Europeon countries. And to the extent that it adds to the price of many items on final sale, it could hurt business just at a time when consumers are being urged to step up their buying again.

It may be that the nation will have to accept a relatively poor form of taxation— the value added idea—to relieve another form—the property tax—which is inequitable when used for education. But Congress should explore every possible other means of finding new revenue to share with the states and communities before turning to this.— Commercial Appeal.

A doctor was awakened at 4 a. m. to make a house call. He reluctantly got dressed and braved a snowstorm. After the examination, he told the patient to send immediately for his lawyer, relatives and friends to make out his will.

The doctor got home and told his wife what he had done.

"Was he that bad?" his wife asked.

"Oh, no... he was fine. I just didn't want to be the only sucker called out on a night like this."

Mark Twain developed an aversion to newspaper interviewers because he claimed that they too often garbled or misrepresented what he said. At one point in his career he refused to grant interviews.

However, one time when he went to his boyhood home in Mo., he made an exception and granted an interview to a young reporter, who asked him what was the most interesting event he had ever witnessed during his life.

Mark Twain thought for a few minutes and then said, "The funeral of Aaron Burr."

"Excuse me, sir," stammered the young cub, "but didn't Burr die a good many years before you were born?"

"Young man," exclaimed Twain, "come over and let me clasp your hand. You're the first newspaperman I've seen in years who discovered a mistake before he printed it!"

FASTENERS OFFERED IN STAINLESS STEEL

Corrosion-resistant stainless steel fasteners are now available in added lines of pre-packaged, self-tapping, machine and wood screws, flat, finishing and locking washers, locknuts and wing nuts; canvas fastener studs, cotter pins, hose clamps and snap-type squeeze rivets.

The Stainless Steel News Bureau said that the popularity of fiberglass boats has made the self-tapping screw a must for many attaching and assembly jobs. In addition to the strength advantages provided by stainless, its well-known resistance to corrosion insures long-lasting service.

A customer hurriedly entered a store and rushed up to a clerk.

"Do you have any gloves in this store?" she asked.

The clerk answered, "Aisle C."

After waiting several minutes without any further comment from the clerk, the customer asked again, just a bit louder than the first time: 'I said, Do you have any gloves in this store?"

Once again the clerk said, without lifting her head from her work, "Aisle C."

"Now listen, lady," the irate customer replied, "that's the second time you've told me, 'I'll see' without moving. When are you going to find out?"

THE GOVERNORS MEET

Stories emanating from Houston where the National Governors Conference was held, told of an unprecedented tightness of security arrangements. Secret Service agents, state and local officers were present as the governors convened and news reporters said credentials of persons trying to enter the restricted area were thoroughly screened. This massing of security details is necessary these days and times when violence on the men who hold office is commonplace and demonstrations that are staged for disruptive purposes are sure to occur.

Anarchy is a sign of our time. It seems the revolutionary element is increasing. In the 1960s they were burning our large cities. The arson and looting have subsided but the disruption of our official life and machinery of government go on. Candidates for the office of President, no matter how obscure their chances, are given at least token protection, and rightfully so.

Security measures are costly to the citizens and they are not always effective, as witness the shooting of Gov. George Wallace of Alabama. Swift and sure punishment of the guilty is one measure that could be taken to eliminate this stain in our national life. The best corrective measure, of course, would be for all men and women to rejoice in our great system of government and respect the holders of public office. There is the right way and the wrong way to correct grievances. If an office-holder is a crook or fails to live up to his oath of responsibility, he can be removed by legal means. Violence is never the right answer. HLH.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Exclusive: Rockefeller's Party (Social) launches Nixon's new northern Strategy

NEW YORK — It was Camelot all the way -- a rollicking, lilting songfilled Rockefellers' social evening which moved from mansion to Play House, across the beauteous rock and pool Japanese gardens of their Pocantico Hills estate -- and right into the governor's contribution to Richard Nixon's Northern strategy.

It was Camelot in Westchester. But most of the 38 guests were proletarian. For the Northern strategy calls for Mr. Nixon to carry New York State, and draw into the vortex Connecticut, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. That would take the Presidential race by several lengths.

To carry New York, a candidate needs the broad shoulders of the state'slabor leaders. "Rocky" long has known this and not only has practiced the stratagem, and not only been welcomed by those whom some would call hard hats and non-ideological, but has made personal friends of the most powerful of them.

And they love it. There they were in the June night at 7 p.m., Monday (12th) following "Nelson" and Mrs. Rockefeller (Happy) through the gardens across the golf course to the buffet of delicacies, not to mention prime roast beef for the calorie-conscious and Lobster Newburg for the insouciant. It was "Happy's" thought to have the wives.

To dinner came Ed and Mrs. Kiernan. He leads the 27,000-man (and woman) Patrolmen's Benevolent Assn., and Mrs. and John DeLury, chief of the big city's Uniformed Sanitationmen's Union, Mrs. and Pete Brennan, powerful chief of the state's 250,000-member Building and Construction Trades Council (AFL—CIO), Mrs. and Joe (T) Trerotola, national Teamsters vice president andhead of the 175,000 -member Joint Council 16.

And of course, the labor leader's labor leader, the man of many hats, hard and soft, Harry Van Arsdale, Electrical Brotherhood's national treasurer and chief of the city's 1.1 million-member Central Labor Council.

With Happy and "Nelson" at the "main" table sat the Van Arsdales, the Brennans and the Joe Ts. Happy made her first public speech. Short. Gracious. Van Arsdale said the governor was the greatest. Brennan contributed with a soft, once-upon -a -time Hell's Kitchen tenor rendition of "Gov (ernor) of My Heart" to the tune of "Peg of My Heart."

Then it was Joe T's turn. This is an influential Teamster. He is high in the Brotherhood's executive counsil.

In effect, he said, when John Lindsay became a Democrat, he (Trerotola) became a Republican. And he is with the governor, whom he considers one of the nation's great leaders, all the way. And since the governor is supporting Nixon's "that's where I am," supporting "Nixon."

This reflected what the other leaders had said. Brennan, who encored himself with "God Bless America" at the ladies' request, had asserted that he always felt bad that the governor never made President. But now he (Brennan) was with him 100 per cent. And "Nixon" is doing a great job."

These men, who let their hair down in the privacy of the Rockefeller home, as much as their ladies had done up theirs, are as pragmatic as a racetrack odds-making computer. They pledged their support and therefore gave their word they would work among the millions who followed them for what "Rocky" wanted -- the reelection of President Nixon. They put themselves on record among the other guests, such state officials as Vincent McDonnell, Mediation Board chairman; Jay Kramer, Labor Relations Board chairman; Industrial Relations Commissioner Lou Levine, who is direct liaison with John Mitchell's Committee For the Reelection of the President, and several others.

So it appears that the Northern strategy is truly a New York labor strategy. Nominally, the Nixon reelection New York State chairmen are Gov. Rockefeller and Sens. Javits and Buckley. That blends the hard-nosed liberals, such as Van Arsdale and Javits, with hard hats, Brennan (who has powerful national influence) and the uniformed civil services -- the cops' Kiernan and the sanitationmen's politically influential DeLury.

If Nelson Rockefeller pours it out, as they say in high GOP circles, he can swing the state -- especially against a Democratic George McGovern ticket. And the governor is determined to carry the state, to smash John Lindsay's influence, to buttress his power base for another reelection campaign, and to stand once again in 1976 in his final bid for the Presidential chair.

If this Northern strategy, billowing over the industrial lines into neighboring states, succeeds, it appears that there would need be no concern over the wounded George Wallace and the shredded Southern strategy.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The late Ho Chi Minh, father of North Vietnam, was sounded out about a peace settlement before he died. We have now obtained a report, still classified "Top Secret," of the historic meeting.

The approach was arranged by Henry Kissinger before he became President Nixon's foreign policy adviser. He sent two French friends, Herbert Marcovich and Raymond Aubrac, to Hanoi with a U.S. offer to stop bombing North Vietnam.

The aging Ho, who had once stayed in Aubrac's home, received his former host on July 24, 1967. Here is Kissinger's report of the meeting, based on Aubrac's notes:

"Aubrac said that what struck him immediately was how old Ho had become. He was dressed in a Chinese gown and walked with the aid of a cane. However, his intelligence was unimpaired, his eyes still had their old sparkle. He seemed to enjoy playing the role of a grandfather figure, not concerned with details.

"Aubrac had brought as a gift a little colored stone egg. Ho gave three presents in return: silk for Aubrac's daughter, some books and a ring made of metal from the 2000th U.S. plane claimed to have been shot down over Vietnam. He remembered the first names of all of Aubrac's three children.

"After speaking about Aubrac's family for about 15 minutes, Aubrac said: 'Mr. President, do you know why I have come?'

"Ho answered 'Yes.'

"Aubrac asked whether he had any comments. Ho replied by saying that he did not like the phrase 'peace in Vietnam.' It gave an impression of moral equivalence between the United States and North Vietnam; in fact, the U.S. is the aggressor and must be condemned...

"The details of the negotiations, said Ho, were in the hands of (Premier) Pham Van Dong. Ho then added: 'Remember, many people have tried to fool me and have failed. I know you don't want to fool me.'

"He then turned the conversation back to family matters. He expressed regret that Aubrac had sold the house where he had stayed 21 years ago.

" 'Where shall I live when I next come to Paris?' He then asked whether he would be welcome in Paris, but avoided the question of whether he wanted an invitation.

"He terminated the conversation after 50 minutes and was escorted from the room. Pham Van Dong walked with Aubrac to his car. He said that 'we try to spare President Ho as many details as we can. He is an old man; we want him to live to see his country unified."

Uranium Windfall -- The Interior Department has decided to let the mining industry get away scot-free with $9 million worth of uranium illegally removed from public lands. Much of the ore was mined during the great uranium rush of the '40s and '50s. The federal government subsequently has been unwilling to prosecute the politically powerful mining companies. Under a federal statute, time will run out unless Interior takes action against the companies by July 18. However, we have obtained a letter from Interior saying no move will be taken to correct the $9 million ripoff of the taxpayers.

Phony Feud? -- The celebrated feud between heavyweight boxers Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier, if you can believe FBI files, is pure theatrics. In October 1968, the G-men investigated an application which Muhammad Ali had made for permission to fight in Philadelphia. He wanted to stage a "boxing exhibition," according to the FBI dossier, to help "the ghetto youth." Because the application was hazy, the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission turned him down. But here's the kicker. On his application, Muhammad Ali cited as a reference "Joe Frazier (Boxer)."

Kissinger's Bodyguard -- The story can now be told how a Secret Service agent almost gave away Henry Kissinger's secret mission to Peking in July 1971. Kissinger slipped across the border from Pakistan into China to make the arrangements for President Nixon's subsequent visit. The cover story was put out that Kissinger was ill. But his bodyguard became suspicious and began looking for him. The Secret Service man tracked Kissinger all the way to the China border and began demanding answers from the Pakistani authorities. They queried Kissinger in Peking. He instructed them to hold the agent under arrest and keep him quiet until Kissinger's return.

Free Tranquilizers -- When we reported in April that Pfizer Laboratories was giving out free tranquilizers to encourage doctors and hospitals to buy the product, a Pfizer spokesman assured us: "We have a policy against free goods." He blamed the handouts on overeager salesmen. But 22 days later, it wasn't an overeager salesman but Pfizer's sales director John Matheu who urged that sales be boosted through use of "free goods." In a memo to his salesmen, Matheu instructs: "You will solicit turnover orders from both Terramycin IM current users and new users, offering the 20 per cent free goods deal ....Let's make this themost successful Terramycin IM program in history.'

Alcoholism Battle Set

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — An occupational health program for employe alcoholism problems will begin in Missouri July 1 funded by a $50,000 federal grant, Dr. Ray R. Knowles, director of the state alcoholism and drug abuse program, announced Thursday.

"The program will involve working with labor, management and government units in developing an industry based education campaign, training supervisory personnel, identifying employes with alcohol problems and referring those employes to treatment services," Knowles explained.

He expects industries to be receptive of the program.

The National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism funded the program to treat employe alcholism. The two professionals to head the program in Missouri are now attending a three-week training seminar sponsored by NIAAA in Greenville, N.C.

Mrs. Joan G. Bartholomew of Columbia and Robert Hubbard of St. Joseph will set up the program with offices at the Division of Mental Health in Jefferson City.

Mrs. Bartholomew will work with private industries and businesses and Hubbard with government agencies.

Hubbard has been personnel officer at the St. Joseph State Hospital the last five years. He is credited with the sheltered mworkshop promect established at the hospital and its adult education program.

Bollinger Named To FLB Post

Michael Bollinger

Michael Bollinger of Manila, Ark., is the new associate manager of Sikeston Federal Land Bank Association. He had been employed since January by Federal Land Bank of St. Louis as a fieldman until being named to the newly created position.

Bollinger received his bachelor of science degree in agricultural business from Arkansas State University at Jonesboro in 1967. He served two years in the Army and has completed course requirements for a master of science degree in agriculture economics from the University of Arkansas.

His wife Betty is teaching in the Lake City, Ark., school system but hopes to teach in the Sikeston area this fall. Mr. and Mrs. Bollinger will move to Sikeston in the near future.

ITT Accused Of Violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission accused International Telephone & & Telegraph Corp., two of its senior officers, and two other companies today of violations of federal securities laws stemming from an antitrust settlement with the Justice Department.

The SEC issued a statement saying it plans to file a complaint against ITT seeking to enjoy the company and the officers' name from further violations of securities laws.

Commits Suicide

SeMo Man Kills Wife

CENTERVILLE, Mo. - Investigators worked all day Thursday trying to determine why the Reynolds County welfare director stabbed his wife to death and killed himself.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Butts were found at their home after they did not appear for work.

"She struggled before she was killed," said Dr. K.T. Carter of Ellington, the county coroner. "Both of her hands were severely cut. One shoulder was bruised. She did not want to die."

Dr. Carter said he will certify that Butts killed his wife by slashing her throat and took his own life by shooting himself in the head with a shotgun. The gun was found across his body.

Sheriff Bill Scott said his investigation indicates Butts had been deeply depressed.

"He had become real different in a lot of respects," the sheriff said. "Something was really bothering him."

The sheriff said Mrs. Butts attended prayer meeting at the First Baptist Church Wednesday night. Butts did not go with her, as he usually did. He was an ordained minister.

"Yesterday he asked his insurance agent to come over from Salem, Mo., and he signed four cards canceling the policies to both him and his wife," Sheriff Scott reported.

They were paid up to June 29.

Carter said Butts had surgery recently and was diabetic, but his medical problems were not severe.

Butts became county welfare director in 1951 and his wife and two sons moved from Marshfield, Mo., to join him at the end of the school year in 1952.

Mrs. Butts worked in the welfare office as a child care specialist. He was 62, she 56. Their work often took them into the remote and rugged wilderness of the Ozark Mountains midway between Poplar Bluff and Rolla in southeast Missouri.

A neighbor and an employe at the welfare office found the bodies about 8:30 a.m.

Scott said it must have been between 6 and 6:30 that Butts slashed his wife with a butcher knife. She was found lying on her back in their bed, her feet touching the floor.

The sheriff said Butts apparently washed the blood from the knife and his hands at the kitchen sink and drove out to a spot on the West Fork River about six miles from Centerville. An acquaintance saw him there. He later returned home.

Sheriff Scott concluded it was more than an hour after he killed his wife that Butts shot himself in the head with the shotgun. He was found about 50 feet from the house at a picnic table and barbecue under some trees.

The two sons live at Springfield, Mo., Clyde Butts is a lawyer. John Butts is a minister of the Missionary Baptist Church.

Morris Pledges $1,000 To Lobby

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Lt. Go . William S. Morris pledged $1,000 today to give the Citizens' Lobby its largest contribution to date in its plea for funds to continue a campaign to get the so-called "Sunshine bill" on the November ballot.

Morris, a Democratic candidate for governor, endorsed the lobby and its initiative petition drive on the open government bill which would make all council, committee, board and other public meetings open to the press and public. He urged others to "match my pledge before the midnight deadline" set tonight by the volunteer lobby.

"I believe citizens should have the opportunity to vote on this issue," Morris said.

The contribution from Morris brings the total pledged since Wednesday to $4,100. Pledges have averaged about $10 each called into a special telephone number.

Ray Appleton, director of the lobby, said he is very optimistic about reaching the $6,000 goal by the midnight deadline which he and Carl Wilson, chairman, said it would take to complete the drive.

"We are particularly grateful to Morris," Appleton said today.

Appleton said Morris was one of the first to contact the lobby when he and Wilson organized it last fall.

Carol Dowd Campaigns To Show Her Support

Mrs. Edward Dowd

By JUDY GAZETTE

Carol Thorlaksson Dowd, wife of Democratic gubernatorial hopeful Edward L. Dowd, is that man's helpmate in the most literal sense.

She has managed in recent months to keep home and family a functional unit, while hitting the state campaign trail with her husband.

"I do get tired," the soft-spoken, red- haired mother of eight said, "but I sincerely enjoy meeting the people connected with Ed's campaign. It's my way of showing everyone I believe in him and feel he's unquestionably qualified for the office."

The Dowd children are Carol Dowd Gasken, 25, Nancy, 24, Ed, Jr., 23, Jim, 21, Doug, 19, Richard, 17, Billy, 14, and Peter, 11.

"Doug is traveling through mid= Missouri campaigning for his father, and Jim, of course, is with us today," she said, counting with her fingers. "Ed, Jr., is in law school, Nancy works with juvenile court in St. Louis and Richard, or "Winky" as we call him, is a high school senior."

After having her lunch interrupted by a telephone call, Mrs. Dowd returned to the table and explained, "The family is scheduled to do a telvision appearance, and they wanted to use studio prop furniture as though it were my own living room. Well, I'd rather not do that, because it's not me ... so we finally decided on moving my furniture to the studio!"

Gathering eight children and two very busy parents from all over the state seems a monumental task. Carol Dowd commented:

"Well, it's a little like mustering an army, but we manage!"

Born in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, her parents were Lutheran missionaries on leave. She moved to Japan by the time she was a year old.

"Once during this campaign a reporter asked me how my childhood and family background equipped me for being a governor's wife. At the time, I answered with a fairly stock reply, but I wasn't entirely satisfied with what I said. That night, I could hardly sleep because the question kept coming back to me. The more I thought, the more I realized how much like my mother's life mine has been since Ed has been in the public eye and service. It's just unbelievable."

When asked if she felt she must also adopt a sort of platform or statement, Mrs. Dowd quipped:

"No! I'm not running for governor, Ed is ... I just want everyone to know how we feel about him. He's the man qualified to govern this state, and my platform is that I know he can do it."

Mrs. Dowd confesses she would rather decorate and redecorate her St. Louis home than just about anything else.

"What kind of furniture?" she laughed. "I guess you'd say traditional. I used to lean toward such soft colors — blues and golds — but lately I've gone with the loudest, wildest colors you can imagine."

Her favorite personal possessions?

"Two pieces of jewelry," she answered. "One is this ring. The diamond in it was my grandmother's. And the other is a gold filigree brooch."

Realizing what delicate matters campaign promises are, this reporter furtively asked for an "Official" interview as soon as Carole Dowd settles into the state mansion. She laughed and said, "One woman told me she couldn't wait for me to move in because the had just one request, and that is to find out what's in the attic at the mansion. 'Great,' I said ... 'I've always wanted to know, too!' "

Dover-Keating

ST. CHARLES — Mr. and Mrs. Veachel Dover, 87 Diva Drive, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Nancy, to John Michael Keating, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Keating, Sr., of Babylon, N.Y. The Dovers are former Sikeston residents.

Miss Dover graduated from Sikeston High School in 1969 and from Barnes Hospital School of Nursing in St. Louis June 3. She plans to work at St. Joseph's Hospital in St. Charles.

Keating is a senior at the University of Missouri, Rolla, where he is majoring in metallurgical engineering.

An Aug. 19 wedding is planned.

Ann Landers

Teenagers Don't Like Weird Sensationalism

Dear Ann Landers: I've noted that on occasion you print satirical "how to" columns. Since I am eminently qualified to give advice on this subject, I decided to write. My topic is How To Make Sure Your Younger Son Grows Up To Be A Mess.

1. Be disappointed that your second child wasn't a girl. After all, the first child was a boy, which pleased his father, so the second child should be a girl, so his mother will be pleased. This is what children are for.

2. Father: Devote all your time and attention to the first-born. Don't worry about ignoring the second son. I promise you his mother will make up for it.

3. Mother: Since Dad is a little tough on the second son (ignoring him and all), protect the boy as best you can. Be sure he doesn't come into contact with the cruel, hard world. A concerned mom can be a great shock absorber.

4. Father: Let your son know he's a sissy because he likes art, music and poetry. Any kid who can't bloody a few noses and be outstanding in sports should be ashamed of himself.

5. Mother: Be critical of every girl your son looks at. After all, your son deserves the best, so don't let him settle for less. A young fellow needs a mother's guidance these days. There are so many tramps around.

6. Father: Let your son know early that you consider him a failure. Compare him with his older brother frequently. If you recognize that the second boy is vastly inferior, be sure to mention it. Don't let people think you're so stupid you don't know the difference.

7. Be prepared for the unhappiness that comes with having a disturbed, maladjusted child. And have some answers ready – such as "We can't understand it. We raised them the same way. It's something in the genes that makes some kids strange. --Born Second.

Dear Second Born: Now that you've decided where the blame lies, start working on the rest of your life. It began this morning.

Dear Ann Landers: We are a group of Winnipeg teenagers who wish to thank you for your forthright opinion on that weirdo-freak superstar who comes out loaded in jewelry, dressed like a dame and does this creepy number where she (?) chops off a doll's head and the make-believe blood oozes all over the stage. The psycho hangs himself at the close of the act.

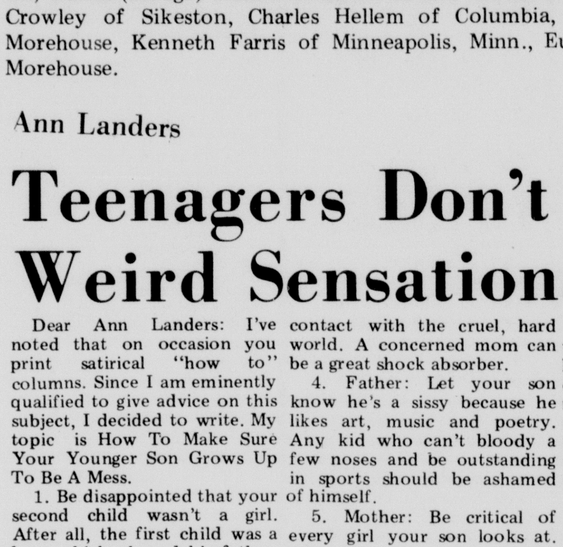
I'll bet you caught plenty of heat from the lunatics who think that lousy noise is right on. Too bad they don't recognize hysterical emotionalism for what it is.

Entertainment should leave an audience with a deeper appreciation for beauty. We object to groups that use cheap sensationalism and shock stuff to mask a lack of talent. American and Canadian teenagers should rebel against junk at ridiculous prices by organizing clubs to stamp out violence, perversion and creepy groups.

For a generation that claims to be against war, against pollution, and says it wants to save the environment, why not start by eliminating the garbage from our own lives. The lyrics to some of the biggest hits are so dirty, I'm sure the adults don't know what the words mean.

We're glad you had the courage to print that letter, Ann. -- With You

Dear With: Thanks for writing. The mail ran 10 to one against us.



Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Orr

Orr-Hopkins

Miss Jana Rose Hopkins became the bride of Raymond Edwin Orr last Saturday at 2 p.m. in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hopkins of Sikeston. Orr is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Orr of Morehouse.

The bride's home was decorated with white gladiolus. The stairway was entwined with ivy and the archway was decorated with white gladiolus on pedestals.

The bride was escorted from the stairway to the arch by her father. The double- rinng ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alonzo Dale of Morehouse.

Mrs. Pam Blackman of Sikeston was the pianist, playing "A Time For Us" and the theme from "Love Story."

The bride's gown was a full length dress of nylon sheer. Acetate and nylon lace appliques trimmed the A-line skirt front and sheer illusion yoke. Ribbon trimmed with lace daisies accented the waistline and Juliet sleeves. The gown had a full chapel-length train.

She carried a bouquet of white daisy pom- poms with white ribbon streamers. Her shoulder- length veil was attached to a headpiece fashioned from flowers.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Carol Cobb of Madison, Ind., sister off the groom. She wore a blue A-line street length dress and carried a bouquet of white daisies with blue net and ribbon streamers.

Jack Cobb of Madison, Ind., brother- in- law of the groom, was best man.

Mrs. Hopkins chose for her daughter's wedding a blue double- knit sheath dress. Her corsage was of white carnation.

Mrs. Orr wore a dress of apricot crepe and her corsage was also white carnations.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held in the home. Gail Holt and Melissa HOlt, both of Sikeston, served.

The bride's table was overlaid with an off- white lace tablecloth with silver canandelabras and blue candles. The three- tiered cake was topped with a bride and groom.

Mrs. Orr is a 1971 graduate of Sikeston High School and is employed by Dr. Howard Johnson. Orr is a 1967 graduate of Morehouse High School and is employed by Malone and Hyde.

After a weekend trip the couple will live on Scott St. in Morehouse.

Bridal showers were given by the First Baptist Church of Morehouse and Melissa and Gail Holt.

Revolution Preached At Explo 72 Is Love

DALLAS (AP) — The Rev. Bill Bright preached revolution — a revolution of love — Wednesday night from a podium in the storied old Cotton Bowl.

"Love is the greatest power in the world," the San Bernardino, Calif., evangelist said. "There is no force known that can resist the supernatural agape, the love of God," the founder-president of the Campus Crusade for Christ said.

About 85,000 persons crammed into the stadium for the second night rally of Explo 72.

The Rev. Ed Hill of Los Angeles carried on with the love theme.

"We're going to take the world for Jesus Christ, and we're going to do it because we love one another and because we love Jesus Christ and because we would have all men know him who set us free."

Cheers from the predominantly youthful crowd went up at pronouncements of both Bright and Hill.

"Amen!

"Right on!"

"Praise the Lord!"

Only one incident marred the otherwise smoothly staged production.

Wednesday was Flag Day and a color guard representing each military service brought in flags.

Gen. Ralph Haines, commander of the U.S. Continental Army Command, told of Flag Day and the foundation of the U.S. Army and drew cheers when he told the crowd: "I have dedicated my life to Christ and have been completely baptized in the Holy Spirit."

A small group of anti-war protestors held up a banner which read: "Cross or Flag; Christ or Country," and chanted several times "Stop the War, Stop the War."

The chants, however, were largely ignored.

"This isn't the right place for that," one youth said. "This doesn't have anything to do with politics."

Billy Graham, co-host of the event with Bright, told the audience:

"I think what you are doing is spreading love all across Dallas-Fort Worth and north Texas. People are smiling at each other that haven't smiled in years."

Rev. W. L. Sneed

Preacher Of 90 Pastor For 53 Years

PORTAGEVILLE -- The Rev. W. L. Sneed, pastor of Pleasant Grove No. 2 Missionary Baptist Church, is 90 years old and has pastored churches in or near Portageville for 38 years.

Born in Winona, Miss., in 1882, he grew up in Blain, Miss., he was converted and became a member in 1901 of New Hope Missionary Baptist Church, where he served as superintendent, Bible teacher, deacon and felt the call to preach.

He was ordained to preach in 1919 and pastored three churches in Mississippi and for a short time in Arkansas before moving to Missouri in 1934. He has since pastored six churches. A widower for seven years, the Rev. Mr. Sneed and his wife had three children -- two now living -- two grandchildren and four great- grandchildren.

Gospel Series Opens Sunday

A series of Gospel meetings begin Sunday and continue June 24 at Shady Acres Church of Christ, 1440 Ables Road, according to Minister Manly Luscombe.

Services will be held each evening at 7:30 with A. L. (Tony) Carpenter of Maypearl, Tex. as speaker.

Questions will be welcomed at each service, Luscombe said.

Rev. Grower Kagy

Kagy Keeps State Post

DEXTER — The Rev. Grover Kagy, director of missions for 42 churches and two missions that make up Cane Creek- Stoddard Baptist Association, was elected to a second three-year term as a trustee from the Missouri Baptist Convention to the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

This action took place at the Southern Baptist Convention last week in Philadelphia.

The Rev. M. E. Dark, pastor of First Baptist Church of Dexter, and the Rev. Mr. Kagy attended the convention with their wives.

Offices for Cane Creek-Stoddard Baptist Association are located at 203 East Stoddard Street in Dexter.

Reject Censure

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An overwhelming majority of the 10,000 delegates attending the Southern Baptists Convention last week rejected a proposal to censor a set of books that give a liberal interpretation of the Bible.

The delegates also selected the first layman since 1959 to head the Southern Baptist Convention, which represents America's largest Protestant denomination. He is Owen Cooper, 64, of Yazoo City, Miss., who will succed the Rev. Carl E. Bates of Charlotte, N. C.

Lutheran State Convention Set

ST. LOUIS -- Delegates at this year's convention of the Missouri District of The Lutheran Church- Missouri Synod will be talking a lot about other people's needs, especially civic ones, when they convene at Concordia Seminary next Monday through Wednesday.

The Rev. Herold G. Lohrman, pastor of Concordia Lutheran Church in Sikeston, will be among 750 delegates, representing congregations and ministries throughout the state, who have already received copies of the convention workbook containing major resolutions to be discussed. These include a proposal for child welfare reform in Missouri, encouragement to the U.S. Congress to act favorably on the amnesty question and additional aid to inner city schools.

The convention essayist, Prof. Martin Scharlemann of Concordia Seminary, will be giving the delegates principles and guidelines regarding the issues of war, amnesty and the general concept of government. It is a long-standing practice at Lutheran conventions to invite someone to deliver an essay on a pre- selected topic and discuss it after its reading.

In celebration of the church body's 125th anniversary and in coordination with the inter-denominational "Key '73" -- a nation- wide evangelism emphasis-- the convention will have a chance to initiate its own program for what one spokesman calls "other people's greatest need: to get to know God in Christ."

The convention will open with a Festival Communion Service on Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. in Immanuel Lutheran Church at St. Charles. The service will be broadcast over radio station KFUO (850). The Festival preachers will be the Rev. Dr. Roland Wiederaenders, first vice- president of the national church body who will be the official representative of the national synod to the district convention.

MEETING GOD THROUGH PRAYER

There were many hypocrites in the days of Jesus. There are many hypocrites in our churches today. Nothing reveals this situation more than a study of prayer.

Journalism has been described as a mirror of the people, The way we turn to prayer provides a mirror of our inter-thoughts. Unfortunately, there are times when we can't see what is really behind the mirror.

Our lesson today concerns the Lord's Prayer, which is recited daily by millions of Christians. It is the center of our devotional life, serving as a model for our personal prayers.

The Jewish piety during the first century revolved around alms, fasting, and prayer. Jesus, of course, had no objections to these concerns, but He did object to the hypocrisy and ostentation involved.

The Lord's Prayer is our greatest prayer. It involves the major elements in Christian living, including material and spiritual needs. Those persons who fear the Bible has become outdated can review this prayer and see that man's concerns have not changed. God is changeless.

God tells us that we pray best when we pray to Him in private. If we pray in public we should be honest and not pray for anything we wouldn't pray for in private. The repetition of pious phrases can become meaningless if we aren't careful. Each time we repeat the Lord's Prayer we need to "recharge" our thoughts.

Young Christians frequently ask why they shall pray to God who knows all of their thoughts and actions. Certainly He knows. He also realizes the psychological values we experience when we acknowledge our dependence upon Him.

Faith Baldwin once wrote that "All prayer is good--the formal, the informal, the talking aloud, the silent, the prayer at desk or table, watching a sunset or a storm. Prayer is reaching for a hand; prayer is sometimes a spontaneous and selfish petition. And it always reaches its destination."

Dr. Robert M. Brown, a Presbyterian theologian, says "prayer for many is like a foreign land. When we go there, we go as tourists. Like most tourists, we feel uncomfortable and out of place."

Unfortunately, many of us today have failed to outgrow our childhood concept of praying to God to satisfy an immediate need. We should, of course, ask God to help us in any way He sees fit. He alone knows our needs.

Prayer is a two-way communication. It represents a mystery in a way. Yet Jesus taught us how to pray. There are special prayers for special occasions. Each religious group has many such prayers for invocations, confession, thanksgiving, petition, and dedication.

Even in the Lord's Prayer we differ in our choice of words. Some say, "Forgive us our trespasses," while others say "forgive us our debts." Does it really make any difference in our ultimate plea for help from God?

So long as we pray for sincere needs, for integrity, courage, and wisdom, we will be following Christ's words. We should not waste time over trivial ends.

We acknowledge in this prayer our recognition of our indebtedness to God. We also admit that we have the right to ask for our daily needs, but only for the essentials. We also admit our debts to Him and confess that we should not be granted forgiveness unless we forgive others.

Prayer is our link with God. It is like all other means of communication. You understand only when you speak clearly and listen cautiously.

Christian Rossetti wrote a prayer asking for "Ears to hear, eyes to see, wills to obey, hearts to love."

Prayer will provide a means for all of us to become better Christians in closer communication with God.

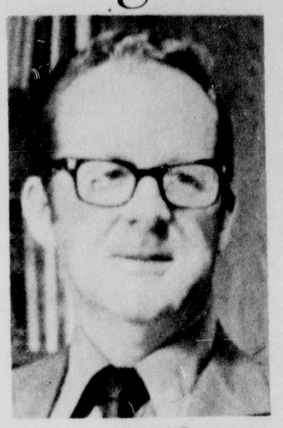
First Christian Pastor Resigns



Rev. Durward Penry

The Rev. Durward Penry is one of four men selected nationwide to enter training starting in August at Kansas Neurological Institute in Topeka, Kan., thus leading to his resignation from his duties as pastor of First Christian Church.

He will continue as minister through July.

The Rev. Mr. Penry will be working in a chaplain's role with the mentally deficient and retarded in an attempt to give spiritual guidance and understanding to them and their parents.

He said he first became interested in this kind of work after World War II when he was a patient in a Marine hospital. Saying the key word is communication, the minister added he did not feel most chaplains were then well- trained in communicating with the patients.

After graduating from Phillips University in Enid, Okla., the Rev. Mr. Penry said he gave consideration to three fields -- teaching, social work and ministry -- in an attempt to decide which field would give him the preparation he would need to work with people.

Deciding ministry was the best route to the kind of work he hoped some day to do, he entered the graduate seminary at Phillips University, receiving his degree in 1955.

After serving in the ministry for 15 years, he feels he has been given a chance to fulfill a need he recognized in the 1940's.

The minister and his wife, whom he met at Phillips University and married in 1950, have five daughters. The oldest, Diane, 19, just completed her first year at her parents' alma mater, Phillips University. Sharon, 15, will be a junior in high school, Tamra, 13, will be in the ninth grade, Melanie, 11, in the seventh and Laurie, 7, will be in the second.

In his five years at First Christian Church in Sikeston, the Rev. Mr. Penry says his duties have covered, "quite a range."

"I've counseled teen-agers, families in times of illness or tragedy and have served with A.A. (Alcoholics Anonymous)," he added.

Before coming to Sikeston he served churches in El Dorado, Ark., and in Kansas.

About his future work he observed, "This will give me a chance to work to have people accept others for what they are ... a chance to break through barriers and develop the hidden potential in myself."

NOW IT IS UP TO US TO LET THE SUNSHINE OF PUBLIC HONESTY INTO OUR STATE GOVERNMENT

Due to a shortage of funds the Citizen's Lobby has been forced to stop its petition drive to collect the 92,000 signatures needed to place a proposed amendment before the voters which would require all votes of our elected representatives to be open to the public.

However, with over 43,000 signatures already acquired, the Citizen's Lobby is prepared to continue if we as private citizens are prepared to help.

"The amendment requires no more of public officials than what they should be doing already . . . being honest with the public. In America, we have a representative democracy. This simply means that we as private citizens don't have time to make the daily decisions of government . . . instead we elect a few who stand in for us and vote on these decisions. But when these few insist on conducting business in secret and refuse to disclose their votes on matters affecting our pocketbooks and the everyday lives of our families, then we've reached a situation in violation of the best interests of a representative democracy."

You can help by phoning in a pledge of financial support before MIDNIGHT THIS FRIDAY. If enough pledges are phoned to justify a minimum budget for completion of the drive, then the Citizen's Lobby will announce at a Saturday morning press conference that the people have spoken . . . the petition drive will continue . . . and the question of open government will be placed before the voters on the November ballot.

THE BIBLE

35. Joseph's Brothers go to Egypt the Second Time

When Joseph's brothers returned to their father's home in Canaan they told him of the "Lord of the Land" in Egypt, who was rough with them and how he had held one of the brothers as prisoner until they brought Benjamin to him to verify their story that they were not spies. They told of finding the money in their sacks of corn. Jacob said that it might have been an oversight. When all the corn they had brought out of Egypt was eaten Jacob told them that they would have to go again and buy more corn. And the brothers told their father again that Benjamin, the youngest, would have to go with them to save their lives.

Jacob would not hear of Benjamin going. He thought Benjamin's brother, Joseph, was dead. He couldn't stand the thought of losing Benjamin, who was also the son of Rachel, the wife whom he dearly loved. Finally Judah convinced his father that he would protect Benjamin and the old man let Benjamin go with them. But Jacob insisted that the brothers take presents to "The Lord of the Land" in Egypt, who they did not yet know was their brother Joseph. Jacob also told them to double the money that they were to pay for the corn. So once again the brothers set out for Egypt.

Pirates Waltz Into First Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Robertson's bat was singing in the rain, hitting high notes for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

His performance Thursday night helped Pittsburgh waltz back into first place in the National League East.

The beefy first baseman broke out of a wicked slump with three hits and four runsbatted-in as the Pirates grabbed a rain-delayed doubleheader from the San Francisco Giants 4-1 and 9-7 and nosed a half-game in front of the idle New York Mets.

"One night isn't going to change everything as far as the slump goes," said Robertson, who was hitless in 21 appearances before Thursday's second game. "I haven't had my timing ... and I didn't have it tonight.

"But it's nice to know the fans have been behind me all the way. They were cheering me even before I got to the plate. And it's got to make you want to come through."

After Robertson drove in a run with a sacrifice fly in the first game, he collected his first hit of the night with a tworun single in the first inning of the nightcap. Then he delivered a run-scoring single in the seventh. Robertson also singled in the third, keeping alive a Pirate rally that scored two runs.

The Chicago Cubs defeated the San Diego Padres 10-1 in Thursday's only other National League game. In the American League, the New York Yankees defeated the Chicago White Sox 8-1; the Kansas City Royals turned back the Boston Red Sox 13-9 and the Cleveland Indians topped the California Angels 1-0.

The Pirates started the night's work a half-game behind the Mets, but climbed back into first place by percentage points after their firstgame victory fashioned on the combined pitching of Nelson Briles and Dave Giusti.

In the nightcap, the Pirates wiped out a 1-0 Giants' lead with a three-run first and never trailed thereafter.

Billy Williams celebrated his 34th birthday with two home runs as Chicago crushed San Diego.

The veteran outfielder ignited a six-run fourth inning with a two-run blast, then launched his 11th homer his next time up in the fifth inning when the Cubs scored three runs.

"I don't think I ever hit a home run before on my birthday," said Williams, who collected the 329th and 330th of his illustrious 12-year career.

Bill Hands improved his wonlost record to 6-2 with a fivehitter.

Bobby Murcer's three-run homer in the third inning sent ex-teammate Stan Bahnsen to an early shower and New York went on to an easy victory over Chicago. The Yankees clipped Bahnsen for a single run in the second on the first of two sacrifice flies by Bernie Allen before Murcer chased Bahnsen with his shot in the third inning. Horace Clarke later added a three-run homer for the Yankees.

Five double plays helped Fritz Peterson notch his fifth victory in 13 decisions after an 0-6 start.

John Mayberry knocked in six runs with a homer and a pair of two-run doubles, leading Kansas City past Boston in a wild baseball game flushed with 32 hits.

Sports Brief

TRIPLE SUCCESS

Only 11 players in major league history have led their league in home runs, runs batted in and batting average in the same season. Ted Williams and Rogers Hornsby each did it twice, Williams with the Boston Red Sox in 1942 and 1947, Hornsby with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1922 and 1925. The most recent "triple crown" winner was Carl Yastrzemski of the Red Sox, who accomplished the feat in 1967.

Onofrio Linked With Gambling

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Al Onofrio, head football coach at the University of Missouri, and four of his assistants hold stock in parimutuel horse racetracks in New Mexico according to racing commissions records, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat newspaper reports.

The combined investment of the coaches is about $12,000.

"I never figured it as being associated with gambling," Onofrio said.

The Globe-Democrat said others holding shares are Clay Cooper, Prentice Gautt, Vincent M. Tobin and Victor Rapp, who recently left the Missouri coaching staff.

Fortuna Corp., the firm in which the coaches hold stock, owns two tracks.

Onofrio owns 375 shares of Fortuna, or about $2,625 worth, the newspaper reported.

Attendance Up A Bit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When baseball's major league players conducted their unprecedented strike at the start of the season, there was concern that fans would turn their backs on the national pastime.

Well, they haven't. In fact, attendance is up a bit, according to a survey by Harry Simmons, an administrative assistant to Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The results, released Wednesday, of the survey covering attendance through the first nine weeks of the season offer two basic conclusions: the fans are still coming out to the ballpark but attendance lost by the strike will hurt the owners.

The survey compares playing dates through June 11 of this season with the corresponding number of dates in 1971, eliminating the attendance lost during the strike, which wiped out 84 games.

For those parallel periods, major league attendance increased by 126,867—1.6 per cent—meaning more fans have seen games in person this year since the strike ended than went to the same span of games last year.

But overall attendance has been hard hit by the strike, the survey shows. Because of the lost playing dates, 1,419,240 fewer fans have been to a game this year.

Even if the 1.6 percent increase holds for the rest of the season, baseball can expect to have a drop of about 1.2 million for the entire year.

11 Await Possible NBA Fine

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Ten National Basketball Association players, and perhaps one more, could be socked with possible fines or suspensions or both today when the league's board of governors concludes its two-day meetings.

The players in question are those who participated in the unsanctioned all-star game against the rival American Basketball Association May 25 at Uniondale, N.Y.

During the game, the NBA used 10 players—Wilt Chamberlain and Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles, John Havlicek of Boston, Nate Archibald of Cincinnati, Bob Love of Chicago, Paul Silas and Connie Hawkins of Phoenix, Archie Clark of Baltimore, Oscar Robertson of Milwaukee and Bob Lanier of Detroit, voted the game's Most Valuable Player.

And an 11th player, Dave DeBusschere of New York, was in uniform but did not play because he still was recuperating from a rib injury suffered in the NBA playoffs.

Section 17 of the NBA's standard player contract forbids players from participaitng in exhibition games without the approval of their owners. There have been no reports of any players, except possibly Robertson, seeking permission to play.

Last year, when the two leagues met in their first postseason all-star game, the NBA also threatened to fine or suspend its participating players. But no action was ever taken.

This year, however, there appears to be a stronger feeling for some kind of punishment.

Each of the members of this year's winning NBA team received $3,000—and there is the possibility they could be fined that much by the owners. Should the owners decide to take such action, a rebellious situation might develop from the players' association, headed by Robertson.

While the owners are debating what action to take against the players, they also are expected to discuss the Julius Erving case.

Cape Signs Alonzo Love

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Another high school football player has decided to continue his "career" in the sport at Southeast Missouri State College.

There's nothing much unusual about that, except that he is Alonzo Love, "in our estimation just the finest freshman prospect in the state," according to Indian head coach Tom Thrower.

Love, a product of Vashon High School in St. Louis, rolled up almost too many athletic honors to mention during the past season.

He was named to the All-City, All-District, All-Public High League, All-Metro and All-State teams.

"A lot of major universities tried to recruit him," said Thrower, "and we feel very fortunate."

Love, at 6-2 and 190 pounds, played split end at Vashon. He runs the 100-yard dash in 9.9.

Bats Ring In L.L.

Little League action resumed Thursday night in all three leagues.

In the National, A & B Leasing walked over the Lions 8-0 and Pizza Inn put nine men across the plate to defeat Security National 9-4.

The Brothers Club fell victim to a batting barrage in a 12-1 loss dished out by Kingsway Plaza in the first game of Musial League play. Nunnelee demolished Hart's Bread 12-3 in the second contest.

In the American League, First National ran in 17 runs in four innings of play to make quick end of Bridger with seven points. Jenkins downed Flower Basket 5-4 in the following game.

A & B used a second inning rally to destroy any hopes of victory for the Lions, putting six men across the plate in the one segment of play. Shortstop Alberts paced the A & B squad with a second inning double.

Pizza Inn gathered forces in the fifth and seventh to score all of its runs in those two innings. Left fielder Marks homered in the seventh to lead the attack, with third baseman Smith assisting with doubles. The winning pitcher was Love, handing the loss to Wilkerson.

The Brothers were unable to halt the first inning rally by Kingsway that brought in nine men. Kingsway excelled from the plate all during the game with 12 hits to three for Brothers. For Kingsway, catcher Williams, and for Brothers, first baseman Howard, tripled to lead their squads. Also for the winners, first baseman Leonard, winning pitcher Williams and third baseman Crenshaw had doubles.

Tracy Glaus led his team to victory with 11 strikeouts to take the win from the mound. Danny Smith was handed the loss, as Hart's Bread fell to Nunnelee. Glaus slammed a home run in the first inning accompanied by a third inning homer slammed by Smith to lead the team. Second baseman Ratledge followed with a triple and a double. Third baseman Bom also tripled in a second inning connection. Danny Smith had a triple for Harts and Rick Hammock had a double.

In the American League, First National had a scoring fiasco in the first, third and fourth innings with six, five and six runs scored respectively with 17 men in all crossing the plate. Longstreet, the catcher, led with a double. Catcher Holifield for Bridger had a double.

It was a battle from the mound in the second game with winning pitcher Alsop and Overby, the loser, throwing 14 strikeouts apiece. Second baseman Tidwell had a triple for Jenkins and catcher Greer hit a double for Flower Basket.

In Wednesday night Little League action, National League did play despite the weather.

Moundsman Wasson pitched Lewis Furniture to a 10-2 victory over the Kiwanis squad and losing hurler Dewitt.

In the second game, winning pitcher Cloud led his team to a 5-4 win over Legion. Greer was the pitcher for Legion.

Weekend Fishing Success On Farm Ponds And Lakes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., (AP) — Big impoundments or farm ponds and lakes offer the best bet for weekend fishing, the State Department of Conservation reported today.

It said heavy rains have made northern Missouri streams high and muddy but in some areas of western and southern Missouri streams are low and clear, with poor fishing reported.

Streams in the trout parks are clear with fishing fair.

Individual stream conditions:

Grand, Platte, Nodaway, Chariton, Black Water and Lamine — Muddy and high, all species poor.

Mississippi — Lower river muddy, all species poor. Middle river normal, channel cat poor to fair, drum good. Upper river clear to dingy, fair to good, locust is good bait.

Missouri — Muddy and high, channel cat fair.

Salt — Clear, channel cat best on set lines using liver and some prepared bait, other species fair.

Cuivre — Clear, crappie fair to good on lower part on minnows, other species fair.

Pomme de Terre — Clear and low, carp and catfish good, white bass and drum fair below dam.

Osage — Dingy and low, all species fair, lower river clear, all species fair.

Gasconade — Clear, channel cat and bass fair to good, goggle-eye excellent.

Big Niangua — Clear, trout and goggle-eye good, other species fair.

Meramec — Clear and low, goggle-eye and bass fair.

Big River — Clear and low.

Big Piney — Clear and low, goggle-eye and bass good on crawdads and live bait.

Current — Clear, goggle-eye good in upper end, other species fair to good.

Eleven Point — Clear, trout good, goggle-eye fair.

Jacks Fork — Clear, goggleeye fair.

Black — Upper river clear and low, bass and goggle-eye fair, remainder clear to dingy, all apecies fair.

St. Francis — Clear and low, some catfish being taken, bass fair on plastic worms.

Castor — Clear and low, fair on live bait.

James — Dingy and low, all species fair.

Elk — Clear and low, bass and goggle-eye fair to good.

Individual lake conditions:

Bull Shoals — Clear, all species fair.

Hart's Rally Drops Optimist, 4-3

Elk's Club and Hart's Standard came away winners last night in senior Babe Ruth action. Elks downed Leible Implement in the opener, 8-5. Hart's utilized two walks and back-to-back sacrifices to send the winning run home in the last half innning in its 4-3 victory over Optimist Club.

Dyer paced Leible at the plate with hree hits, including a last inning triple. Cather Ward connected for two safeties.

Colwick's three hits and Evan's two blasts aided the Elk's hitting department. Mitchell went the distance for the win.

In the nightcap, the Optimists knotted the score at 3-all in the sixth before losing in the seventh to Hart Standard's last inning heroics.

Hewitt and Saulters walked in the final inning before Wake and Luber sacrified the runners around for the winning run.

Saulters blasted the only three Hart's safeties, while teammate Blankenship picked up the win

"Protect Witnesses" Says Bond

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Christopher "Kit" Bond, state auditor and GOP gubernatorial candidate, Thursday called for witness immunity laws in Missouri as a way to crack organized crime.

Speaking at the Concord Township Republican Club, Bond pointed to the recent St. Louis grand jury investigation into the murder of Edward Steska, St. Louis steamfitter union boss, as example of the need for the law. He said without it grand juries — one of the most effective tools against crime — are hampered.

"It is impossible to obtain testimony from a witness who fears subsequent prosecution as a result of later prosecution of a witness for what he tells a grand jury," Bond said.

A witness immunity law would waive prosecution by the state on evidence that could be self incriminating to the witness.

Eight Die In SeMo Accidents In May

POPLAR BLUFF — Troop E of the Missouri State Highway Patrol reports a total of 323 accidents in the Bootheel during May, bringing the total number of accidents in 1972 to 1,337. Fatalities during the month numbered eight for a total of 60, 230 were injured in May and 700 have been injured in 1972 in the 15 counties comprising Troop E.

Breakdown of the local six-county area is:

Dunklin County had 33 accidents during May and a total of 135 to date; one fatality occurred and 12 were injured.

Mississippi County recorded 25 accidents during May and 100 in 1972; one was killed last month and 19 were injured.

There were 26 accidents in New Madrid County during May and a total of 128 this year; nine were injured and one was killed.

Pemiscot County had 25 accidents and 111 to date; 13 were injured and three killed.

Scott County recorded 18 accidents, bringing the yearly total to 83; 13 were injured and one was killed.

Thirty-three accidents were reported in Stoddard County during May and 146 to date; 13 were injured and two killed.

Spradling Wins Globe Service Award

JEFFERSON CITY — Sen. Albert M. Spradling, Jr. (Dem.), Cape Girardeau, was among eight Missouri legislators who received Globe-Democrat meritorious service awards Tuesday for their work in 1971-72 sessions of the 76th General Assembly.

A four- time recipient of the award, Spradling was cited for his work on legislation concerning the governmental reorganization amendment, an attempt at streamlining some state agencies.

Spradling has served the 27th district as senator for 21 years and is seeking re-election. He will become the senior senator when Sen. J. F. 'Pat' Patterson retires at the end of this term.

"Voice Of Labor" Will Protest Vietnam War

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Harold Gibbons, intern ational vice president of the Teamsters Union, says he was told in Hanoi earlier this year that North Vietnam will agree to a ceasefire and begin returning American prisoners of war just as soon as the United Staes sets a withdrawal date and abides by it.

Gibbons went to Hanoi in March with two other American labor leaders and met with Le Duc Tho, chief of the North Vietnamese peace delegation at Paris. He declined to discuss the meeting, saying he wanted to relay the information to Henry Kissinger, aide to President Richard M. Nixon.

The union leader disclosed the Hanoi offer Thursday as he was discussing plans for a national meeting next month of a new group called Labor For Peace.

Gibbons said a meeting of the group in St. Louis June 23-24 is expected to attract about 1,000 persons, including Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Mrs. Coretta King.

He said the purpose was to "raise labor's voice in protest to the continuation of the Vietnam War."

Judge Puts Pillory In Courtroom

FULTON, Mo., June 15 (AP) - The equipment in Callaway County Magistrate Court now includes a pillory and stock.

Judge Hugh P. Williamson swears he is going to ask for authority to resort to the colonial-style punishment. The judge also is among those who sweat that Callaway County has been free and independent of the United States since it seceded in 1862.

"A pillory confines the head and hands." Williamson said. "A stock confines the hands and feet."

He climbed into his combination of them to demonstrate.

Passerbys in colonial times were permitted to throw eggs, mud, sticks and stones at the confinee, and his sentence could range from several hours to several days.

"It could deteriorate quickly from uncomfortable to intolerable," Williamson said.

"Our ancestors were not soft on criminals."

The judge hopes the presence of the pillory and stock in his courtroom will remind transgressors of this.

He also hopes it will persuade them of his great compassion.

Judge Williamson brushes aside any reference to the Constitution and cruel and unusual punishment by saying:

"The Kington of Callaway is a strange and unusual place, and the Constitution of the United States has not application here anyway since we seceded from the Union in 1862 and have been out of it ever since and are extremely glad of it."

King Would Eliminate Welfare To Employable

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — State Rep. E. J. "Bus" King, R-Clayton, GOP candidate for governor, will call tonight for cutting off welfare to all ablebodied people.

In a speech prepared for a dinner meeting at the Hotel Robidoux, King will outline what he calls a new approach to the problem of welfare.

Only the elderly, the blind and the disabled would get direct welfare payments under King's plan and he would increase those checks.

"We are on the verge of a taxpayers' revolt," King said, predicting that such a revolt would jeopardize educational, mental health and environmental control programs as well as welfare.

"Our basic mistake has been in assuming that we can eliminate poverty by giving away money," he said. "Instead of helping people find a way to take care of themselves, we have simply continued to give them welfare payments."

King's five-point program would pay private industry "a sum equal to what the individual had received from the welfare program" for training indigents. King would also provide state-paid vocational training tuition and continued welfare payments until the recipient is out of school.

The state, cities and counties could also participate in the program of hiring the needy in King's proposal, but welfare assistance "would be computed on an hourly basis and paid only for the actual hours worked."

King said such a program "would cosy no more than the present welfare system, but society would receive something in return and the individual would be made to understand that he cannot receive payments without work."

The plan calls for free daycare centers in urban areas and baby-sitter allowances in small towns for mothers of preschool children working for wages below "a specified income level."

King pledged, if elected governor, he would put the plan into operation.

Sikestonians Attend Texas Rotary Meet

HOUSTON, Texas — Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher Scism. Mr. and Mrs. William Z. Baker, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Williams, all of Sikeston, were among the 18,000 Rotarians and guests from more than 65 countries who attended the 63rd annual convention of Rotary International, June 11 to June 15, 1972, in Houston, Tex.

PUBLIC NOTICES

CITY OF SIKESTON, MO.
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2" hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6" soil cement base with concrete curb and gutters on William Street from Carroll Street west to join William Street in Cole's Subdivision in accordance with plans and specifications,

In the city of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the council of the city of Sikeston, state of Missouri, as follows: section 1: that the council of the city of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the city of Sikeston. section 2: that the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. section 3: that the estimated cost of the improvement is $5.30 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. section 4: that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the state of Missouri and the ordinances of the city of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the city council the general revenue fund of the city of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. section 5: that any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the state of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the industrial commission of Missouri. section 6: that the city clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the city of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 5th day of June, 1972. Approved: Frank Ferrell, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

Ross Hunter Thrilled Making 'Lost Horizon' Musical Version

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Talking to Ross Hunter about his picture, "Lost Horizon," is something like talking to a teen-ager about his new car. He's so excited about it the words come tumbling out in a delightful spurt of enthusiasm.

Of course, there's a little difference in the overall cost of the project. "Lost Horizon" will come in at somewhere between six and seven million dollars. It will probably be the biggest film shot in Hollywood this year. But Hunter talks about it as though it was his new toy.

But he's always been somewhat different from the average producer. Ross is the kind of man who takes his date Nancy Sinatra Sr. out to the movies and stands in line with everybody else. He isn't one to throw his weight around.

So his excitement about his baby, "Lost Horizon," is predictable. To make a musical version of the James Hilton novel has been his long-time dream.

He's always loved the book and has turned to it for help in times of trouble. One such time came nine years ago when he says he was going through a bad time. He found solace in "Lost Horizon" and decided then that he wanted to make the movie.

He was at Universal at the time. He knew Columbia owned the rights to the property. He called them and they said, sure, he could do it — provided he switched to Columbia. He couldn't do that, so, as he says, "the dream exploded."

A couple of years ago he had another seige of problems and again turned to his dog-eared, underlined copy of the book. He says he decided then that he had to get away from Universal "if I wanted to preserve my sanity." He had many offers, including one from Columbia, and took that one because it included doing "Lost Horizon."

The first decision he made was to get Burt Bacharach to write the music, with his lyricist, Hal David. Burt Bacharach Sr., the columnist, and his wife, Irma, had always had Ross over for dinner whenever the producer went to New York so he's known the young composer for years.

But Burt and Hal did not know the property. Ross had them over and screened the original movie starring the late Ronald Colman. They made the deal 24 hours later.

Casting was a problem. Everyone wanted to be in it. It was like a jig-saw puzzle made out of gold. Ross has done a great job—he has a cast including Peter Finch, Liv Ullmann, Sally Kellerman, George Kennedy, Michael York, Olivia Hussey, Sir John Gielgud, Bobby Van. Charles Boyer portrays the high lama.

He had some static from Oriental groups when he cast Gielgud as Chang. They wanted an Oriental actor. But Hunter says they had obviously not read the book —Chang is half-English and Oxford-educated.

At first there was a part written in for Helen Hayes. When she couldn't do it the part was taken out. That didn't stop a lot of actresses —including Ruth Gordon— from clamoring to get the part.

The script, taken from the original book, has been updated to the '70s. Hunter believes Hilton must have had some form of ESP because he says it is even timelier now than when it was written in the early '30s.

You'll be hearing the lovely Bacharach-David songs a lot now, long before the film is released for Easter '73.

Bradley Honored By Dedication At Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — A corridor of the Pentagon building was dedicated Wednesday to General of the Army Omar N. Bradley, a former Missourian.

Bradley, 79, enthusiastically reviewed the honor guard at the ceremonies and received a 19-gun salute.

The corridor, outside the Joints Chiefs of Staff area, has been redecorated with plaques, photographs, medals and flags depicting Bradley's life from his Missouri boyhood through West Point and three wars.

$3 Million Seized In Bogus Bills

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — About $3 million in counterfeit bills has been seized at Pine Bluff, and nine persons were arrested in Little Rock and Pine Bluff in connection with the bogus money.

Harold Duke, special agent in charge of the Secret Service in Arkansas, said Tuesday the money represented probably one of the largest seizures of counterfeit bills in the country.

Duke said all of the money, which wa in denominations of $50 and $100, was seized at one time and apparently none had gotten into circulation. He said, however, the passing of counterfeit money had been active in the state, particularly in the last three weeks.

He said he could not say what the origin of the money was. Duke said bills of the type confiscated were first noticed in Little Rock and shortly thereafter in Pine Bluff.

Duke said no plates or printing equipment had been found.

Duke identified those arrested as Arthur James Jr., Dora Ann Frost and Jack Rheuark, all of Little Rock; Troy Stinson Jr., Mary Hathaway Johnson, Jerry Roberts, Perry Williams, all of Pine Bluff, and Ricky Patterson and Wayne Freeman, both of Benton. He said they were taken into custody this week and last week in Pine Bluff and Little Rock.

Hike Pushes Youth Jobs Above Million

WASHINGTON — The supplemental appropriation signed by President Nixon in Moscow has raised the number of summer jobs for youth to the all- time high of 1,201,400, Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson has announced.

This is 220,000 more summer jobs than were available for youth last summer.

The funds made available through this appropriation will bring the total to be spent this summer to $377.6 million, also a record high, and $85 million more than in any previous year, Hodgson explained.

Most of the federally supported jobs for youth this summer will be in the Neighborhood Youth Corps. The NYC summer program is providing nine weeks of employment for 740,222 disadvantaged boys and girls 14 through 21 years old. The jobs pay $1.60 an hour for work in community service activities.

The supplemental appropriation not only sets up a larger- than- ever summer program, but it still provides a record amount of lead time for local planners. Local governments and agencies were given initial allocations in March to help plan for the summer. The supplemental funds are also that much ahead of previous years availability, Hodgson pointed out.

The $377.6 million in Federal funds will be spent through four programs providing 865,322 jobs. The remaining 336,000 jobs will be provided mainly in the private sector by business and industry, without Federal financial support.

Professor Gets Research Grant

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) An associate professor of economics at the University of MissouriColumbia has received a $20,600 grant for research on population growth.

Dr. W. Whitney Hicks will pursue the assignment at Standford University during the coming school year. It involves contrasting areas in Mexico, some of them with declining birth rates. His objective is to determine the economic cause and effects of population growth or shrinkage.

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Irate Motel Owner

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

After buying a motel from Mr. Hoople, Chester optimistically intended to sit back and do nothing but ring up the profits. The only wringing he did, however, was with his hands. Because, soon after he bought the motel, Mr. Hoople erected a new one directly across the highway that absorbed passing motorists like a sponge.

The result? Chester's business dropped like it had been pushed off a cliff and he sued Mr. Hoople for the sharp dip in his profits.

"After I paid that chiseler Hoople a small fortune for the motel," complained Chester in court, "he had no right to erect a new one and go into competition with me. He's now drawing all the customers while I can't ever draw gophers.

"He's just a cry baby," was Mr. Hoople's answer. "The fact is I didn't sell him a monopoly in the area. If I didn't open up the new motel, someone else would have done it. It was a perfect spot. Consequently, Chester's got no cause to complain."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Mr. Hoople pay damages for opening a new motel across the road?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that since Chester's deed to control motel contained no promises from Mr. Hoople, expressed or implied, that Mr. Hoople would not compete with him in the motel business after the sale, Mr. Hoople was free to do so. (Based upon a 1957 Kentucky Supreme Court Decision)

Clean Water Suit Works

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Clean Water Commission took its first legal action Friday in Wright City under the new clean water law passed by the legislature and apparently it worked.

An injunction suit filed in Warren County Circuit Court sought to prohibit Wright City from dumping untreated sewage discharge into Peruque Creek. A $5,000 penalty was asked, plus $617.98 to pay for fish killed from the city's waste stabilization lagoon on June 6.

The case began when Wright City officials drained the lagoon into the creek to repair piping on the bottom of the stabilization pond. An estimated 1,179 fish were killed in a mile and a half of the stream below the lagoon outfall, state Department of Conservation reports show.

Since then, a water commission spokesman said, the city has closed the valve to the creek, but no comment has been made by the city.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

I find then a law, that, when I would do good, evil is present with me. (Romans 7:21)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, our heavenly Father, for Thy redemptive love. Help us to lose ourselves in devotion to Thee and in dedication to the work of redemptive love. This we ask in the name of our Redeemer, who taught us to pray, "Our Father, who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, June 16, the 168th day of 1972. There are 198 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1963, the first woman space traveler, Vanetina Tereshkova, was launched into orbit from a base in the Soviet Union.

On this date:

In 1774, the first settlement in Kentucky, Harrodsburg, was founded.

In 1858, Abraham Lincoln said in a speech in Springfield, Ill., "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

In 1897, the Alaska gold rush began with news of a rich strike on Bonanaza Creek.

In 1920, the Council of the League of Nations held its first public meeting at St. James Palace in London.

In 1940, the French Maginot Line was abandoned to the Germans in World War II.

In 1960, President Dwight D. Eisenhower canceled a visit to Japan after anti-American rioting.

Ten years ago: Three feuding princes in Laos were attempting to end their dispute and form a coalition government.

Five years ago: Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin met French President Charles de Gaulle in Paris to enlist his support for the Soviet campaign to force Israel to withdraw from Arab territory captured in the six-day war.

One year ago: the U.S. Senate voted 55 to 42 against a plan calling for a total American troop withdrawal from Vietnam by the end of the year.

Today's birthday: Former opera star Helen Traubel is 68.

Wilderness Area Hearing Slated

MINNEAPOLIS -- A public hearing on classifying 1,705 acres of Mingo National Wildlife Refuge in Wayne and Stoddard Counties as a national wilderness area is scheduled June 28 at Puxico, the federal Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife announced today.

The public hearing will start at 7:30 p.m. June 28 at the elementary school in Puxico. Oral or written statements may be submitted at the hearing or written comments may be sent to the bureau's Regional Director, BSF&W, Federal Building, Fort Snelling, Twin Cities, Minnesota 55111 by July 28.

A map and other information on the Mingo wilderness proposal is available from the Refuge Manager, Mingo National Wildlife Refuge, Route One, Puxico, Missouri, 63960, or from the Bureau's regional director at the Twin Cities address given above.

The proposal includes all of the present natural area situated in the southwest sector of the refuge and suggests a change in classification for this portion of the refuge.

Located one mile west of Puxico in an abandoned channel of the Mississippi River, this naturally wild area was approved for purchase as a National Wildlife Refuge by the Migratory Bird Commission in June, 1944.

About the turn of the century, logging was in full swing in Mingo Swamp. Soon afterwards, ditching and draining took place to turn the swamp into marginal farmland. This venture eventually failed.

Since the beginning of the refuge in 1947, native trees and other plants have again prospered. State size records for eight kinds of trees are now found on the refuge, and wildlife such as wild turkey have reestablished themselves.

The refuge contains two major waterfowl impoundments, a network of dikes and roads for operations and myriads of wildlife. Many moist soil and cultivated crop units have been developed to provide food for wildlife.

Deer, raccoon, ducks and geese are commonly seen by visitors and photographers. Wildlife related tours, fishing, picnicking and hunting are the most popular public uses on the refuge. The new visitor center is expected to increase these uses when completed late next year.

Two Arrested On Charges Of Flag Theft

Police today announced the arrest of two teen-agers on charges stemming from the theft of two flags from the home and campaign headquarters of C. F. Cline, candidate for the Democratic nomination for state representative from the 159th district.

Lt. Leonard Campbell said today that David Ervin Davis, 18, of Morley was arrested for making a falst statement to police during the investigation of the theft. Campbell declined to reveal what Davis said.

Also arrested was James Earl Young, 17, of Parma for receiving stolen property. He bought the flags, police say.

The flags were stolen April 12 from 310 Moore. They were discovered two weeks later in an apartment at 304 Heath. Police were called to Heath street because a car was blocking a driveway. They were told that the man who had parked the car had entered the apartment. Police knocked on the door but no one answered, although people could be seen inside the rooms.

The owner of the building let police in and they found four juveniles and the flags.

Line Plans Shelved

ADVANCE -- A proposal to lay water lines in the Garner and Stilts Addition here has been tabled by the City Council until more bids are submitted.

The following motions were made and carried: to accept Harold Stilts' bid for city hall air conditioning provided it is less than the other bid presented; to set deadline for merchants' licenses on July 31; to erect two- hour parking signs between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. from South street north on Garret to Benton street, and also on Maple avenue west to Blair street, and to go ahead with plans for a preliminary report on expansion or construction of a new water plant.

Building permits were granted Lillian Thompson for a carport and to Lawrence Matney for a workshop, and a residence in Garner and Stilts Addition, lot 13, was approved.

$6 Billion Farm Income Loss

NFO Charges Ag Paper Recommends Abandonment Of Price Supports

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP) — The National Farmers Organization charged today that an internal Agriculture Treatment paper recommends progressive abandonment of all federal price supports with a resulting $6 billion loss in net farm income.

The report was delivered to the Democratic Party Platform hearing on farm problems by Erhardt Pingsten, former president of the militant NFO.

He was one of about 50 witnesses scheduled at the daylong session.

The paper, titled "New Directions for U.S. Agricultural policy," was prepared by the department's "Young Executives Committee, Pfingsten testified. The committee is made up of 15 administraive officers of the agency, he said.

It suggests abandonment of the support programs for wheat, cotton, corn, other feed grains, dairy products, wool, sugar peanuts, tobacco—"everything given any price support," the witness said.

He reported Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has continued the Young Executives Committee set up by his predecessor, Clifford M. Hardin. Its report has been submitted, Pfingsten said, but has been kept under wraps until a copy was obtained by the NFO this week.

"The Young Executives" proposal has not been made official policy, but its persistent reappearance, each time from a source closer to top policy making leels, makes it important that it be dealt with without eequivocation," the witness said. "It is time that it is buried once and for all, and party platforms are an excellent place to do it."

Besides vhe five-year phaseout of price supports, Pfingsten said, the Young Executives' plan calls for discontinuing farmers Home Administration real estate and operating loans, the phasing out of dairy products purchase programs and other buying programs, reducing non-recourse loan rates to "disaster level;" for wheat and feed grains and zero for other crops.

Farmers put out of business would be eligible for President Nixon's proposed family assistance plan, the witness added.

The proposal was termed "unconscionable" by Rep. James Abourezk of South Dakota, who presided over the platform panel's morning session.

In his opening remarks, Abourezk called for a platform designed to stabilize rural population and reject "the dominatnt administration theory that the farmily farm is a relic of the past.

"We must encourage a populaton policy that keeps peole in the countryside, relieving the oppressive crush in metropolitan America," Abourezk said, "and to do all this we simply have got to view our rural programs as part of a national policy that puts humans ahead of conglomerate profit."

The chairman told the crowded hearing room he was confident the 150-member full platform committee willldraft a document for the national convention "which says bery bluntly that rural America is dying and it is the job of the etire nation to avert that death."

"If we say that and if we back up that funcamental understanding with programs that go to the gut of the economic plight of rural America then we will truly deserve to win, and we will win."

Fred V. Heinkel, chairman of the national Farm Coalition, presented to the Democratic policy makers a statement adopted June 5 at a conference of that federation of 28 national farm organizations.

C'ville Man Shot To Death

CARUTHERSVILLE — John L. Jones, 31, of Caruthersville was shot in the neck with a pistol and killed Thursday about 1:30 a.m. at Paul's Place on Vest Street.

Police are holding Olian Isom, Jr., also of Caruthersville in connection with the shooting. Isom is manager of Paul's Place. Authorities said there were several witnesses, but details of the shooting have not been released.

No charges have been filed against Isom.

Nine Cases Heard In City Court

A small number of arrests during the past few weeks finally made an impact on the City Court docket. Only nine cases were heard Thursday night.

James Brent, 1102 Osage, charged with two counts of maintaining a public nuisance, had his cases continued until next Thursday. He was brought to court after failing to clean up a junkyard he owns on Osage.

Margie Musgrove, 407 Dorothy, peace disturbance, forfeited bond of $35. James W. Morrison, 221 W. Kathleen, assault and battery, pleaded not guilty and trial was set for next Wednesday. Donnie Joe Odell of East Prairie, careless and imprudent driving, fined $60.

William Dale Gardner, 707 Troy, destroying city property, dismissed on payment of court costs. Jessie Leeman Hodge, Jr. of Dittmer, public intoxication, fined $19. David Harris, 224 Felker, public intoxication, fined $19.

Daniel J. Hodge of Morley Box 251, driving while intoxicated, case continued to July 19.

Not Stealing, Just Moving

A camper trailer was not stolen Saturday night from Propst Mobile Home lot on East Malone Avenue, police say.

They had received a report that three men were seen hooking the trailer to a pickup truck and driving away. Police now say the man who had just purchased the trailer had asked the men to pick it up for him. He has failed to notify Propst officials that he was taking the trailer.

Dexter Man Hurt In Mishap

DEXTER — Willard Smith, 61, Route Three, was injured at 6:55 p.m. Thursday three miles southwest of here on Five Mile Road when his car went out of control and overturned in a ditch.

He was taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital with a back injury and cuts on the face and head.

Sunflower May Fight Soybean Nematode

By DENISE BLANKENSHIP

While much research remains to be done, the oilseed sunflower could help alleviate the cyst nematode problem in soybeans in Southeast Missouri.

Dr. Norman Brown of the Missouri Delta Research Center of the University of Missouri Extension Service at Portageville has been experimenting with the oilseed sunflower since 1968.

Dr. Brown explains the problem:

"The cyst nematode feeds on the soybean plant root. Each year soybeans are consistently planted in an acreage, the incidence of the parasite increases. When non-host crops — such as sunflowers are rotated through the field the nematode's growth is checked.

"However," he continued, "much research must be done. We have to learn what diseases affect the plant, how to control bird damage and develop hybrids."

Dr. Brown says he cannot estimate economics of the sunflower right now.

"There's no way I can say whether it is more economical than corn or wheat. But I know if it is going to be a good rotation crop that farmers will use, it will have to make money."

Elmer Carlson of the Carlson Sunflower Company is promoting the over- sized daisy more avidly.

Carlson says a farmer can expect a ton of sunflower seeds for every 100 bushels of corn. And his company will provide seed and a guaranteed contract at $84 per ton.

How this price compares with corn and wheat depends on the market, yield and investments, such as fertilizer and weed and pest control.

So far about 1,000 acres in this area have been planted in or committed to the oilseed sunflower. This variety is different from the type grown many years ago in the Bootheel for birdseed.

The oilseed was developed by the Russians and is used in salad and cooking oils. World- wide, in vegetable oil production, the oilseed sunflower is second only to soybeans among the eight vegetable oils.

While the American variety has an oil content of 40 per cent, Carlson said some Russian varieties are 60 per cent oil. The higher oil content is obviously more profitable since more oil can be extracted from fewer seeds.

Carlson's goal is to convince enough farmers in 50 counties of Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee to put at least 300 acres per county in sunflowers — enough acreage to earn $1 million.

If his plan works, Carlson will use the monies to hire at least two sunflower research scientists and assistants to work at the Delta Research Center in Portageville.

Operating expenses for research would be paid from interest on the $1 million, leaving the principal intact, Carlson added.

He seems confident that farmers will be handling much more acreage in sunflowers, but both he and Dr. Brown recognize questions and problems must be worked out before the oilseed can be widely accepted and produced.

While most U.S. production is in North Dakota, California and the South, Russians produce half the total world production. Other countries producing seed include Romania, Iran, Argentina, Mexico and Canada.

The largest farms in the United States are in the Corn Belt. George Henderson, district director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, explained how a farmer in Southeast Missouri could plant sunflowers on set- aside land:

"The farmer must certify his acreage between now and July 3 and tell the ASCS office what he has planted and intends to plant. If this includes a set- aside crop such as sunflowers, a note is made and the farmer's payments on cotton or grain are reduced by the county rate, $8 in most counties and $9.10 in Mississippi county."

Whatever the outcome, from a female point of view, a field of sunflowerss is certainly esthetically appealing!

Child Injured

Donald Blanton, the six-year-old son of Mrs. Martha Kim, was struck by a car at 5:30 p.m. Thursday in front of 214 West North Street. He was treated for a cut on the left leg and for bruises and released from Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Police reports this morning were incomplete, but apparently the child rode his bicycle in front of a car driven by Ora Segers of Bell City , Route one, as she was driving west on North Street.

Police investigation is continuing.

Spainhower Pledges Depository Changes

James I. Spainhower of Jefferson City, candidate for Democratic nomination for state treasurer, was in Scott County Thursday and said he was pledging to the people of Missouri that under his administration the policy he will follow in selecting banks as state depositories "will it be in the best interest of the public?"

Spainhower declared, in a visit to Sikeston, "I think we must restore public confidence in all areas of state government, and a good starting point is the coice of state depositories."

He pledged that "policies will not be a guiding factor" but rather the question will be "is the placing of state funds in any bank of economic benefit to the community?"

"I feel that rural or other areas which may have some special problem, needing an infusion of extra capital should be due special consideration, and I shall take such into account," he declared.

The Democratic candidate, a former representative from Saline County, declared, "As treasurer I will take immediate control of the state's collection accounts which are deposited in non-interest bearing bank accounts. A few banks now having such accounts have abused their position by not transmitting the funds to the state treasury as promptly as required. I will stop this practice and any bank which violates the regulation will immediately cease to be a state depository."

For Kidnap Trial

Test Ordered For Achter

CHARLESTON — A psychiatric examination to determine competency to stand trial was ordered Thursday for Leslie Allen Achter of East Prairie by Magistrate T.J. Brown, Jr.

Achter will be examined by Dr. Carter Fenton, D.O., by June 22 and will appear again in Magistrate Court June 27. He is charged with the kidnapping of Mary Cooper of East Prairie on May 18.

The probation of Shane Bostic of Wyatt, granted June 1 on a disturbing the peace charge was revoked following her appearance Thursday on a common assault charge. Judge Brown sentenced her to 30 days on the assault charge to run concurrently with a 60-day sentence for disturbing the peace.

A preliminary hearing for George Robert Scott, address unavailable, charged with burglary involving breaking and entering, was set for June 28. Scott is accused of attempting to enter the Budweiser Cafe on May 28. He remains in jail in lieu of $500 bond.

Appearing on misdemeanor charges were Roy B. Marshall of Sikeston, speeding $26; Willis Ray Harris of Charleston, failure to yield right of way, $26; Antonio Moreno of East Prairie, no operator's license, $21; James T. Bruce of East Prairie , failure to exercise highest degree of care, $36; Jimmy Lynn Gargus of Bertrand, no operator's license, $16; and Henry Williams of Charleston, peace disturbance $25; George Greer of Charleston received a 60-day suspended sentence and was placed on one-year probation. Condition of his probation is he obey the law and pay costs of $21.

Judge Brown set July 7 as trial date for Robert Dale Urban of Sikeston, charged with possession of intoxicating beer in a change of venue case from New Madrid County. Hugh David Whiteaker of Sikeston will stand trial on the same charge July 13.

Cases continued to June 22 include Margie Lou Lindley of East Prairie, no operator's license; Billy Ray Nolen of Charleston, driving while license was revoked; Charles Clark of Charleston, selling intoxicating liquor without a license; Dennis Lee Morgan of Charleston, driving while license was suspended; Larry Oscar Gammons East Prairie, driving while intoxicated and driving while operator's license was suspended.

A felonious assault charge against Monroe Sharp of Charleston was continued to Thursday, and felony charges of stealing against Stanley Lee Davidson of East Prairie and Jimmie Wilson of Anniston were also continued to Thursday.

Civil cases continued to Thursday include Ponder Chevrolet-Buick Co. versus Larry Archie, suit on installment contract for $493.57; and an account suit for $64.24 brought by James and Willard Bomar, doing business as Western Auto Store, against Earl Merryman. An account suit for $172.06 brought by E.T. Small, doing business as Small's L.P. Gas Co., against Danny Presson was continued to July 13.

A charge of careless and imprudent driving against Lois Adolph Woods of East Prairie was continued to July 13.

Airline Pilots Plan Worldwide Strike Monday

NEW YORK (AP) — The pilots in 64 nations, including the United States, will strike for 24 hours Monday to protest hijacking dangers, the International Federation of Airline Pilots Associations said today.

In Washingto n earlier, the U.S. Air Line Pilots Association ordered its members to take part in a worldwide protest.

"This drastic action is the result of the lack of effective international measures to stem the tide of unlawful interference with civil aviation and constitutes a strong expression of deep concern and solidarity on the part of the world's aviation community," federation president Capt. Ola Forsberg, told a news conference.

The action by U.S. pilots was to take effect at 2 a.m. June 19, John J. O'Donnell, ALPA president, told a Washington news conference.

The international federation, representing 50,000 pilots said on June 8 it would suspend civil aviation services unless the United Nations Security Council took effective action against hijackings.

"Under law, air line pilots are charged with the responsibility for the lives of the passengers entrusted to them," O'Donnell said.

Bertrand Man Jailed

BENTON — Clarence Wesley Butler, 32, of Bertrand Box 189 is in Scott County Jail today charged with disturbing the peace and displaying a dangerous and deadly weapon while intoxicated.

Sheriff John Dennis said Butler was chasing his wife with a rifle when he was spotted by a neighbor Bobby Laseter. When Laseter tried to stop him Butler shoved the gun into a car bumper and bent the barrel apparently "to show how mean he was," Dennis said. Other neighbors arrived took the gun away from Butler, and called Dennis.

Butler lives on the R.J. Swank farm between Blodgett and Miner.

Food Chains Forecast Consumer Price Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of the nation's food chains are telling consumer groups to expect another big rise in food prices, particularly meats, in c oming weeks.

The Price Commission, saying that it is concerned about a possible sharp surge in retail food prices because of an increase at the wholesale level, is scheduled to meet to discuss the situation next Wednesday.

A commission spokesman said that a number of options are under consideration.

A spokesman for the food chains, Timothy D. McEnroe, public relations director with the National Association of Food Chains, said that big food stores have been absorbing a wholesale increase in prices of food and meat for eight or nine weeks.

He said the association's board has been meeting with several consumer groups and telling them that retail outlets are not to blame if the price of food should rise again sharply as expected.

"It will be a matter of almost pure luck if they don't go up," McEnroe said.

The food chains are now paying $60 per hundredweight per beef carcass, "the highest in memory," McEnroe said. He noted that that was $2 over the high in February when Treasury Secretary John B. Connally called in big chain stores to talk about rising food prices.

The Price Commission has discussed food prices in recent weeks, but it has recommended no action so far. Among the options under consideration are direct control of food prices and rationing, two routes that the Nixon administration wants o avoid, sources said.

McEnroe said that retail food chains did not want another situation like last February when the food chains were called in to meet with Connally. He said that it probably wouldn't change the situation.

As for any possible action that the Price Commission would take, he said, "Any control system other than the one we have now would just be disastrous." He said he saw no precipitous action by the Price Commission against food and meat prices.

McEnroe conceded that food chains might decide to absorb an increasing amount of the higher wholesale food costs because of possible pressure from the government or for public relations reasons.

Thieves Break Into Dexter Area Home

DEXTER — Stoddard County sheriff's department and the highway patrol are investigating a breakin at the C. W. Wiggs home, one mile north of here. The breakin occurred sometime between Monday and noon Thursday while the Wiggs family was away on vacation.

Entry was gained by breaking a lock on the rear door of the home. Items taken were a portable television, men and women's clothing, a pair of binoculars, one-karat diamond ring, a pair of cufflinks and a large assortment of costume jewelry.

The Duke of Windsor is now dead and buried. We were always a great admirer of the Duke, but one thing we couldn't understand was after the Duke's mother died, Queen Mary, why Queen Elizabeth and the rest of the kinfolks in England refused to have him come back to England. It seemed to me that Queen Elizabeth would not be Queen if Edward kept on with his kingdom, why they wouldn't have him beats me, because he was really the top dog in England for many years and I believe he still had the most English people's heart with him.

LIB

Are American men ready to join their sisters in the women's liberation movement in calling for the breakdown of sex-role stereotypes? "Never!" say the members of the Society for the Emancipation of the American Male (SEAM), who hope "to restore the American male to his rightful place at the head of the family." To further the cause, SEAM has declared Father's Day, Sunday, June 18, as Male Emancipation Day. Kahlil Samra, co-founder of SEAM, believes that the whole range of psychiatric problems from alcoholism to juvenile deliquency is less prevalent in patriarchies "such as Italy, Greece, Japan, and India, where men still rule their homes."

Many women find it difficult to understand why men are reluctant to share the strains and burdens -- the ulcers and the migraines -- that accure to the head of the household. Man's reward for bearing the responsibilities of "bringing home the bacon" is a life expectancy approximately eight years shorter than his wife's. Women's liberationists contend that men, no less than women, are trapped by predefined roles which limit their outlook, occupations, and emotions.

"Men cannot play freely or cry freely or be gentle, because these are feminine, not masculine, traits," says Dr. Jack Sawyer, a psychologist with Harvard University's department of social relations. "But a fuller concept of humanity recognizes that all men and women are potentially both strong and weak, active and passive, and that these and other human characteristsic are not the province of one sex."

Numberous men continue to view women's liberation as a threat to their masculinity rather than the source of their emancipation. By taking this attitude, women's liberationists say, men fail to see the irony of seeking emancipation through confinement in the role of protector / provider. "The first significant discovery we shall make as we racket along our female road to freedom," Germaine Greer wrote in The Female Eunuch, "is that men are not free, and they will seek to make this an argument why nobody should be free. We can only reply that slaves enslave their masters and by securing our own manumission we may show men the way that they could follow when they jump off their own treadmill."

WE'VE BEEN INGORED

United Auto Workers' bosses at their recent convention adopted a resolution tabbing the National Right to Work Committee a "fanatic, right wing" organization because we are pushing for legislation that would end compulsory unionism!

But is it "fanatic" to believe every American ought to have the right to be gainfully employed without having to fork over part of his pay check to a union boss? And is it "right wing" to believe that each worker's individual freedom is of more importance than filling union coffers? Does individual freedom smack of the authoritarianism associated with right-wingdom?

From the point of view of the radical left the answer seems to be "yes" the freedom to decide for one's self is indeed "fanatic" and "right wing."

M. Stanton Evans, editor of the Indianapolis News and CBS "Spectrum" commentator, says the reason is that the self-designated liberals have given the union membership problem over to the "experts," and the experts have decided the American worker simply isn't capable of knowing what's best for himself and therefore isn't qualified to decide, "Should I join or should I not join the union?"

To feel differently than the experts, which we most emphatically do, makes Right to Work advocates vulnerable to this type of name calling.

Well, if this is the reason, we enjoy being called fanatical and right wing — because we definitely do not subscribe to the radical theory that the American worker isn't capable of deciding for himself.

Furthermore, we question the right of many self-proclaimed "liberal" spokesmen to continue wearing their titles. Because while babbling away at no end about civil rights, individual liberties, equality under the law, and the Bill of Rights, they have summarily turned a deaf ear on the plea of millions of workers to be relieved of compulsory union servitude.

Is it equality, we ask them, when a highly skilled, highly qualified worker is tossed out of his job simply because he refuses to join a union? Aren't there civil rights involved here?

We'd like to set the record straight, therefore, especially for the so-called liberals who have ignored us and by their silence have condoned the iron-fisted compulsion directed by the "experts."

Right to Work is as much their issue as ours. Right to Work is every man's issue. As Evans put it, "This is where the civil liberties battle is taking place."

The civil liberties battle is one that can wear no labels, not the "liberal" label, not the "conservative." It defies labels and name calling. What's right is right.

We thank Stan Evans, who has given us occasion to invite the long overdue interest of the more publicized "champions" of civil liberties.

And we are confident that the American people understand perfectly well who the real "fanatics" are: those who would compel working people to pay union bosses for the "privilege" of earning a living.

NATIONAL NO-FAULT
LAW

After waiting in vain for state legislatures to move forward decisively in adopting the popular form of no-fault automobile insurance, the Commerce Committee of the U. S. Senate has sensibly approved a bill providing for a national no - fault system — one which sets minimum standards for state no-fault laws and provides that if states do not enact such measures by July 1, 1975, a federal law would take effect.

Under a pure no-fault insurance plan, an injured motorist's own insurance company pays him and his passengers for medical care, lost wages, pain and suffering and property damage without regard to whose negligence (or fault) caused the accident. The system eliminates costly investigation and litigation of accidents, allows far faster payment of claims and leads to lower premiums. But largely because of the opposition of trial lawyers, only Massachusetts and Florida have adopted laws that even approach true no-fault plans.

Several other states, including Connecticut and New Jersey this year, have approved compromise plans, usually influenced by the lobbying of lawyers who want to preserve all or some of their damage claim business. The record of the past few years, however, indicates that if the nation waits for individual states to enact no-fault laws as recommended by the Nixon Administration, the system may not be countrywide for another 48 years. And even then it would have a large litigation potential built into it by lawyer-lobbyists and lawyer-legislators.

The most promising means for auto insurance reform is a federal bill like that sponsored in the Senate by Warren G. Magnuson and Philip A. Hart. Although the prospect for passage by the Senate this year is good, the House outlook is uncertain. Perhaps House members would get the message if they knew that four out of five citizens who understand the no-fault principle are in favor of it. They are fed up with the traffic jam in auto accident claims and the long and costly delays in collecting compensation. And they know it doesn't have to be that way.

NEW YORK (AP) — What or where is limbo?

We all know pretty well when we're in either heaven or hell. But what is it like to be in limbo?

In Roman Catholic theology, limbo is a place where no one is actually punished, but neither does anyone see the beatific vision, a denial which poets feel can be cruelest of all punishments. Limbo also is where the souls of unborn children dwell, and the souls of those who die before baptism.

But to most of us limbo is hard to pin down in our daily lives. It is indefinite and vague, a sensation of being lost and lonely and isolated.

We are in limbo, for example, when we are out on a limb in a situation with no one aware of our plight or in any hurry to aid us.

Here are some other possible limbos, although some bear a strong resemblance to purgatory or hell:

In earliest infancy, limbo is where you are when mother isn't cuddling you in her arms.

Limbo is sitting in a corner with a dunce cap on for being unable to spell cat in the first grade.

Limbo is where you live later in life after you scrape and save to visit Las Vegas only to drop your gambling capital there on your first big casino bet.

Limbo is being an orphan and looking through a window to watch five children in a happy home eating Thanksgiving dinner with their parents.

Limbo is where a soldier feels he is when he reads a "Dear John" letter from his sweetheart during a lull in combat.

Limbo is the time between the time you wrote your rent check and the time when your paycheck gets to the bank to cover it.

Limbo is where your visiting mother-in-law puts you when she announces you have given her such a nice time she has decided to stay another two weeks.

Limbo is where the boss puts you when he asks if you think it is fair for him to plunge the firm deeper into the red by giving the merit raise you want.

Limbo is insomnia in a double feather bed.

And limbo is where a columnist finds himself when he sits down to write a column on limbo. And dear reader, if you're still with me, look around quick. You're in limbo too.

VALUE ADDED
TAX AGAIN

The question of whether the United States should turn to a value added tax as a new source of revenues has been raised again in Washington. The United Press International reported over the weekend that members of President Nixon's Cabinet have been putting out trial balloons on the idea.

What is a "value added" tax?

Stripped to its essentials, it is a national sales tax. It differs from the present retail sales tax in that it is collected at each step of the way as an item moves from raw material to consumer goods. For example, consider a loaf of bread. The miller, the sugar refiner and the shortening processor each would sell his product to a baker, adding to the price a tax for the value he has added to it. Each of those processors would send the collected tax to the federal government. The baker would note how much value added tax he had paid and file for a refund, but would add a tax for the value he added in baking. The retailer in turn would add to his price a tax for the value of the service he performs. Finally, the consumer pays the tax as part of his price on the bread and that ends the matter.

It is an idea that has been kicking around since at least 1941, when it was proposed as a means of helping to pay for World War II. It has come up again more recently mainly because it has been adopted by many European nations which sometimes use it as a gimmick to subsidize their exports.

Tax officials discussed it frequently at their meetings during 1968, so much so that than Assstant Secretary of Treasury Stanley S. Surrey devoted a lengthy speech at the National Association of Manufacturers annual meeting to denouncing it.

But President Nixon has mentioned the idea from time to time, and Undersecretary of Treasury Charls Walker has been a strong advocate of that form of tax.

It is getting reconsideration now partly because federal courts in several states have ruled that the property tax is an unfair way to finance schools.

If those rulings are upheld, states and communities are going to have to find new sources of school revenues. For some, including Tennessee, that is going to be difficult. The Tennessee Constitution has been interpreted as prohibiting an ordinary income tax. So about the only way new school revenues could be found, if the property tax is invalid for that purpose, would be by very steep sales or luxury-item taxes.

The Nixon administration is reported considering the value added tax now as part of the revenue sharing plan that has been stalled in Congress. The idea would be to use the value added money as refunds to each state with the understanding that it would be used for education with property taxes reduced by an equal amount.

That would be a very alluring bait for both members of Congress and the property taxpayers who feel they already have been saddled with too much of a burden. So both the value added concept and revenue sharing may fare better in Congress next year than either has in the past.

But Congress should approach this subject carefully.

The value added tax is a regressive tax, putting a heavier burden on those least able to pay. Also, it is another burden on the processors and sellers of goods, requiring a tremendous addition to their bookkeeping operations on both incoming and outgoing items. This aspect has brought strong protests already in some Europeon countries. And to the extent that it adds to the price of many items on final sale, it could hurt business just at a time when consumers are being urged to step up their buying again.

It may be that the nation will have to accept a relatively poor form of taxation— the value added idea—to relieve another form—the property tax—which is inequitable when used for education. But Congress should explore every possible other means of finding new revenue to share with the states and communities before turning to this.— Commercial Appeal.

"Was he that bad?" his wife asked.

"Oh, no... he was fine. I just didn't want to be the only sucker called out on a night like this."

However, one time when he went to his boyhood home in Mo., he made an exception and granted an interview to a young reporter, who asked him what was the most interesting event he had ever witnessed during his life.

Mark Twain thought for a few minutes and then said, "The funeral of Aaron Burr."

"Excuse me, sir," stammered the young cub, "but didn't Burr die a good many years before you were born?"

"Young man," exclaimed Twain, "come over and let me clasp your hand. You're the first newspaperman I've seen in years who discovered a mistake before he printed it!"

THE GOVERNORS MEET

Stories emanating from Houston where the National Governors Conference was held, told of an unprecedented tightness of security arrangements. Secret Service agents, state and local officers were present as the governors convened and news reporters said credentials of persons trying to enter the restricted area were thoroughly screened. This massing of security details is necessary these days and times when violence on the men who hold office is commonplace and demonstrations that are staged for disruptive purposes are sure to occur.

Anarchy is a sign of our time. It seems the revolutionary element is increasing. In the 1960s they were burning our large cities. The arson and looting have subsided but the disruption of our official life and machinery of government go on. Candidates for the office of President, no matter how obscure their chances, are given at least token protection, and rightfully so.

Security measures are costly to the citizens and they are not always effective, as witness the shooting of Gov. George Wallace of Alabama. Swift and sure punishment of the guilty is one measure that could be taken to eliminate this stain in our national life. The best corrective measure, of course, would be for all men and women to rejoice in our great system of government and respect the holders of public office. There is the right way and the wrong way to correct grievances. If an office-holder is a crook or fails to live up to his oath of responsibility, he can be removed by legal means. Violence is never the right answer. HLH.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Exclusive: Rockefeller's Party (Social) launches Nixon's new northern Strategy

NEW YORK — It was Camelot all the way -- a rollicking, lilting songfilled Rockefellers' social evening which moved from mansion to Play House, across the beauteous rock and pool Japanese gardens of their Pocantico Hills estate -- and right into the governor's contribution to Richard Nixon's Northern strategy.

It was Camelot in Westchester. But most of the 38 guests were proletarian. For the Northern strategy calls for Mr. Nixon to carry New York State, and draw into the vortex Connecticut, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. That would take the Presidential race by several lengths.

To carry New York, a candidate needs the broad shoulders of the state's labor leaders. "Rocky" long has known this and not only has practiced the stratagem, and not only been welcomed by those whom some would call hard hats and non-ideological, but has made personal friends of the most powerful of them.

And they love it. There they were in the June night at 7 p.m., Monday (12th) following "Nelson" and Mrs. Rockefeller (Happy) through the gardens across the golf course to the buffet of delicacies, not to mention prime roast beef for the calorie-conscious and Lobster Newburg for the insouciant. It was "Happy's" thought to have the wives.

To dinner came Ed and Mrs. Kiernan. He leads the 27,000-man (and woman) Patrolmen's Benevolent Assn., and Mrs. and John DeLury, chief of the big city's Uniformed Sanitationmen's Union, Mrs. and Pete Brennan, powerful chief of the state's 250,000-member Building and Construction Trades Council (AFL-CIO), Mrs. and Joe (T) Trerotola, national Teamsters vice president andhead of the 175,000 -member Joint Council 16.

And of course, the labor leader's labor leader, the man of many hats, hard and soft, Harry Van Arsdale, Electrical Brotherhood's national treasurer and chief of the city's 1.1 million-member Central Labor Council.

With Happy and "Nelson" at the "main" table sat the Van Arsdales, the Brennans and the Joe Ts. Happy made her first public speech. Short. Gracious. Van Arsdale said the governor was the greatest. Brennan contributed with a soft, once-upon-a-time Hell's Kitchen tenor rendition of "Gov (ernor) of My Heart" to the tune of "Peg of My Heart."

Then it was Joe T's turn. This is an influential Teamster. He is high in the Brotherhood's executive counsil.

In effect, he said, when John Lindsay became a Democrat, he (Trerotola) became a Republican. And he is with the governor, whom he considers one of the nation's great leaders, all the way. And since the governor is supporting Nixon's "that's where I am," supporting "Nixon."

This reflected what the other leaders had said. Brennan, who encored himself with "God Bless America" at the ladies' request, had asserted that he always felt bad that the governor never made President. But now he (Brennan) was with him 100 per cent. And "Nixon" is doing a great job."

These men, who let their hair down in the privacy of the Rockefeller home, as much as their ladies had done up theirs, are as pragmatic as a racetrack odds-making computer. They pledged their support and therefore gave their word they would work among the millions who followed them for what "Rocky" wanted -- the reelection of President Nixon. They put themselves on record among the other guests, such state officials as Vincent McDonnell, Mediation Board chairman; Jay Kramer, Labor Relations Board chairman; Industrial Relations Commissioner Lou Levine, who is direct liaison with John Mitchell's Committee For the Reelection of the President, and several others.

So it appears that the Northern strategy is truly a New York labor strategy. Nominally, the Nixon reelection New York State chairmen are Gov. Rockefeller and Sens. Javits and Buckley. That blends the hard-nosed liberals, such as Van Arsdale and Javits, with hard hats, Brennan (who has powerful national influence) and the uniformed civil services -- the cops' Kiernan and the sanitationmen's politically influential DeLury.

If Nelson Rockefeller pours it out, as they say in high GOP circles, he can swing the state -- especially against a Democratic George McGovern ticket. And the governor is determined to carry the state, to smash John Lindsay's influence, to buttress his power base for another reelection campaign, and to stand once again in 1976 in his final bid for the Presidential chair.

If this Northern strategy, billowing over the industrial lines into neighboring states, succeeds, it appears that there would need be no concern over the wounded George Wallace and the shredded Southern strategy.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — The late Ho Chi Minh, father of North Vietnam, was sounded out about a peace settlement before he died. We have now obtained a report, still classified "Top Secret," of the historic meeting.

The approach was arranged by Henry Kissinger before he became President Nixon's foreign policy adviser. He sent two French friends, Herbert Marcovich and Raymond Aubrac, to Hanoi with a U.S. offer to stop bombing North Vietnam.

The aging Ho, who had once stayed in Aubrac's home, received his former host on July 24, 1967. Here is Kissinger's report of the meeting, based on Aubrac's notes:

"Aubrac said that what struck him immediately was how old Ho had become. He was dressed in a Chinese gown and walked with the aid of a cane. However, his intelligence was unimpaired, his eyes still had their old sparkle. He seemed to enjoy playing the role of a grandfather figure, not concerned with details.

"Aubrac had brought as a gift a little colored stone egg. Ho gave three presents in return: silk for Aubrac's daughter, some books and a ring made of metal from the 2000th U.S. plane claimed to have been shot down over Vietnam. He remembered the first names of all of Aubrac's three children.

"After speaking about Aubrac's family for about 15 minutes, Aubrac said: 'Mr. President, do you know why I have come?'

"Ho answered 'Yes.'

"Aubrac asked whether he had any comments. Ho replied by saying that he did not like the phrase 'peace in Vietnam.' It gave an impression of moral equivalence between the United States and North Vietnam; in fact, the U.S. is the aggressor and must be condemned...

"The details of the negotiations, said Ho, were in the hands of (Premier) Pham Van Dong. Ho then added: 'Remember, many people have tried to fool me and have failed. I know you don't want to fool me.'

"He then turned the conversation back to family matters. He expressed regret that Aubrac had sold the house where he had stayed 21 years ago.

" 'Where shall I live when I next come to Paris?' He then asked whether he would be welcome in Paris, but avoided the question of whether he wanted an invitation.

"He terminated the conversation after 50 minutes and was escorted from the room. Pham Van Dong walked with Aubrac to his car. He said that 'we try to spare President Ho as many details as we can. He is an old man; we want him to live to see his country unified."

WASHINGTON WHIRL

Uranium Windfall -- The Interior Department has decided to let the mining industry get away scot-free with $9 million worth of uranium illegally removed from public lands. Much of the ore was mined during the great uranium rush of the '40s and '50s. The federal government subsequently has been unwilling to prosecute the politically powerful mining companies. Under a federal statute, time will run out unless Interior takes action against the companies by July 18. However, we have obtained a letter from Interior saying no move will be taken to correct the $9 million ripoff of the taxpayers.

Phony Feud? -- The celebrated feud between heavyweight boxers Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier, if you can believe FBI files, is pure theatrics. In October 1968, the G-men investigated an application which Muhammad Ali had made for permission to fight in Philadelphia. He wanted to stage a "boxing exhibition," according to the FBI dossier, to help "the ghetto youth." Because the application was hazy, the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission turned him down. But here's the kicker. On his application, Muhammad Ali cited as a reference "Joe Frazier (Boxer)."

Kissinger's Bodyguard -- The story can now be told how a Secret Service agent almost gave away Henry Kissinger's secret mission to Peking in July 1971. Kissinger slipped across the border from Pakistan into China to make the arrangements for President Nixon's subsequent visit. The cover story was put out that Kissinger was ill. But his bodyguard became suspicious and began looking for him. The Secret Service man tracked Kissinger all the way to the China border and began demanding answers from the Pakistani authorities. They queried Kissinger in Peking. He instructed them to hold the agent under arrest and keep him quiet until Kissinger's return.

Free Tranquilizers -- When we reported in April that Pfizer Laboratories was giving out free tranquilizers to encourage doctors and hospitals to buy the product, a Pfizer spokesman assured us: "We have a policy against free goods." He blamed the handouts on overeager salesmen. But 22 days later, it wasn't an overeager salesman but Pfizer's sales director John Matheu who urged that sales be boosted through use of "free goods." In a memo to his salesmen, Matheu instructs: "You will solicit turnover orders from both Terramycin IM current users and new users, offering the 20 per cent free goods deal ....Let's make this themost successful Terramycin IM program in history.'

Alcoholism Battle Set

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — An occupational health program for employe alcoholism problems will begin in Missouri July 1 funded by a $50,000 federal grant, Dr. Ray R. Knowles, director of the state alcoholism and drug abuse program, announced Thursday.

"The program will involve working with labor, management and government units in developing an industry based education campaign, training supervisory personnel, identifying employes with alcohol problems and referring those employes to treatment services," Knowles explained.

He expects industries to be receptive of the program.

The National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism funded the program to treat employe alcholism. The two professionals to head the program in Missouri are now attending a three-week training seminar sponsored by NIAAA in Greenville, N.C.

Mrs. Joan G. Bartholomew of Columbia and Robert Hubbard of St. Joseph will set up the program with offices at the Division of Mental Health in Jefferson City.

Mrs. Bartholomew will work with private industries and businesses and Hubbard with government agencies.

Hubbard has been personnel officer at the St. Joseph State Hospital the last five years. He is credited with the sheltered mworkshop promect established at the hospital and its adult education program.

Bollinger Named To FLB Post

Michael Bollinger

Michael Bollinger of Manila, Ark., is the new associate manager of Sikeston Federal Land Bank Association. He had been employed since January by Federal Land Bank of St. Louis as a fieldman until being named to the newly created position.

Bollinger received his bachelor of science degree in agricultural business from Arkansas State University at Jonesboro in 1967. He served two years in the Army and has completed course requirements for a master of science degree in agriculture economics from the University of Arkansas.

His wife Betty is teaching in the Lake City, Ark., school system but hopes to teach in the Sikeston area this fall. Mr. and Mrs. Bollinger will move to Sikeston in the near future.

ITT Accused Of Violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission accused International Telephone & & Telegraph Corp., two of its senior officers, and two other companies today of violations of federal securities laws stemming from an antitrust settlement with the Justice Department.

The SEC issued a statement saying it plans to file a complaint against ITT seeking to enjoy the company and the officers' name from further violations of securities laws.

Commits Suicide

SeMo Man Kills Wife

CENTERVILLE, Mo. - Investigators worked all day Thursday trying to determine why the Reynolds County welfare director stabbed his wife to death and killed himself.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Butts were found at their home after they did not appear for work.

"She struggled before she was killed," said Dr. K.T. Carter of Ellington, the county coroner. "Both of her hands were severely cut. One shoulder was bruised. She did not want to die."

Dr. Carter said he will certify that Butts killed his wife by slashing her throat and took his own life by shooting himself in the head with a shotgun. The gun was found across his body.

Sheriff Bill Scott said his investigation indicates Butts had been deeply depressed.

"He had become real different in a lot of respects," the sheriff said. "Something was really bothering him."

The sheriff said Mrs. Butts attended prayer meeting at the First Baptist Church Wednesday night. Butts did not go with her, as he usually did. He was an ordained minister.

"Yesterday he asked his insurance agent to come over from Salem, Mo., and he signed four cards canceling the policies to both him and his wife," Sheriff Scott reported.

They were paid up to June 29.

Carter said Butts had surgery recently and was diabetic, but his medical problems were not severe.

Butts became county welfare director in 1951 and his wife and two sons moved from Marshfield, Mo., to join him at the end of the school year in 1952.

Mrs. Butts worked in the welfare office as a child care specialist. He was 62, she 56. Their work often took them into the remote and rugged wilderness of the Ozark Mountains midway between Poplar Bluff and Rolla in southeast Missouri.

A neighbor and an employe at the welfare office found the bodies about 8:30 a.m.

Scott said it must have been between 6 and 6:30 that Butts slashed his wife with a butcher knife. She was found lying on her back in their bed, her feet touching the floor.

The sheriff said Butts apparently washed the blood from the knife and his hands at the kitchen sink and drove out to a spot on the West Fork River about six miles from Centerville. An acquaintance saw him there. He later returned home.

Sheriff Scott concluded it was more than an hour after he killed his wife that Butts shot himself in the head with the shotgun. He was found about 50 feet from the house at a picnic table and barbecue under some trees.

The two sons live at Springfield, Mo., Clyde Butts is a lawyer. John Butts is a minister of the Missionary Baptist Church.

Morris Pledges $1,000 To Lobby

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Lt. Go . William S. Morris pledged $1,000 today to give the Citizens' Lobby its largest contribution to date in its plea for funds to continue a campaign to get the so-called "Sunshine bill" on the November ballot.

Morris, a Democratic candidate for governor, endorsed the lobby and its initiative petition drive on the open government bill which would make all council, committee, board and other public meetings open to the press and public. He urged others to "match my pledge before the midnight deadline" set tonight by the volunteer lobby.

"I believe citizens should have the opportunity to vote on this issue," Morris said.

The contribution from Morris brings the total pledged since Wednesday to $4,100. Pledges have averaged about $10 each called into a special telephone number.

Ray Appleton, director of the lobby, said he is very optimistic about reaching the $6,000 goal by the midnight deadline which he and Carl Wilson, chairman, said it would take to complete the drive.

"We are particularly grateful to Morris," Appleton said today.

Appleton said Morris was one of the first to contact the lobby when he and Wilson organized it last fall.

Carol Dowd Campaigns To Show Her Support

Mrs. Edward Dowd

By JUDY GAZETTE

Carol Thorlaksson Dowd, wife of Democratic gubernatorial hopeful Edward L. Dowd, is that man's helpmate in the most literal sense.

She has managed in recent months to keep home and family a functional unit, while hitting the state campaign trail with her husband.

"I do get tired," the soft-spoken, red- haired mother of eight said, "but I sincerely enjoy meeting the people connected with Ed's campaign. It's my way of showing everyone I believe in him and feel he's unquestionably qualified for the office."

The Dowd children are Carol Dowd Gasken, 25, Nancy, 24, Ed, Jr., 23, Jim, 21, Doug, 19, Richard, 17, Billy, 14, and Peter, 11.

"Doug is traveling through mid= Missouri campaigning for his father, and Jim, of course, is with us today," she said, counting with her fingers. "Ed, Jr., is in law school, Nancy works with juvenile court in St. Louis and Richard, or "Winky" as we call him, is a high school senior."

After having her lunch interrupted by a telephone call, Mrs. Dowd returned to the table and explained, "The family is scheduled to do a telvision appearance, and they wanted to use studio prop furniture as though it were my own living room. Well, I'd rather not do that, because it's not me ... so we finally decided on moving my furniture to the studio!"

Gathering eight children and two very busy parents from all over the state seems a monumental task. Carol Dowd commented:

"Well, it's a little like mustering an army, but we manage!"

Born in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, her parents were Lutheran missionaries on leave. She moved to Japan by the time she was a year old.

"Once during this campaign a reporter asked me how my childhood and family background equipped me for being a governor's wife. At the time, I answered with a fairly stock reply, but I wasn't entirely satisfied with what I said. That night, I could hardly sleep because the question kept coming back to me. The more I thought, the more I realized how much like my mother's life mine has been since Ed has been in the public eye and service. It's just unbelievable."

When asked if she felt she must also adopt a sort of platform or statement, Mrs. Dowd quipped:

"No! I'm not running for governor, Ed is ... I just want everyone to know how we feel about him. He's the man qualified to govern this state, and my platform is that I know he can do it."

Mrs. Dowd confesses she would rather decorate and redecorate her St. Louis home than just about anything else.

"What kind of furniture?" she laughed. "I guess you'd say traditional. I used to lean toward such soft colors — blues and golds — but lately I've gone with the loudest, wildest colors you can imagine."

Her favorite personal possessions?

"Two pieces of jewelry," she answered. "One is this ring. The diamond in it was my grandmother's. And the other is a gold filigree brooch."

Realizing what delicate matters campaign promises are, this reporter furtively asked for an "Official" interview as soon as Carole Dowd settles into the state mansion. She laughed and said, "One woman told me she couldn't wait for me to move in because the had just one request, and that is to find out what's in the attic at the mansion. 'Great,' I said ... 'I've always wanted to know, too!' "

Dover-Keating

ST. CHARLES — Mr. and Mrs. Veachel Dover, 87 Diva Drive, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Nancy, to John Michael Keating, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Keating, Sr., of Babylon, N.Y. The Dovers are former Sikeston residents.

Miss Dover graduated from Sikeston High School in 1969 and from Barnes Hospital School of Nursing in St. Louis June 3. She plans to work at St. Joseph's Hospital in St. Charles.

Keating is a senior at the University of Missouri, Rolla, where he is majoring in metallurgical engineering.

Ann Landers

Teenagers Don't Like Weird Sensationalism

Dear Ann Landers: I've noted that on occasion you print satirical "how to" columns. Since I am eminently qualified to give advice on this subject, I decided to write. My topic is How To Make Sure Your Younger Son Grows Up To Be A Mess.

1. Be disappointed that your second child wasn't a girl. After all, the first child was a boy, which pleased his father, so the second child should be a girl, so his mother will be pleased. This is what children are for.

2. Father: Devote all your time and attention to the first-born. Don't worry about ignoring the second son. I promise you his mother will make up for it.

3. Mother: Since Dad is a little tough on the second son (ignoring him and all), protect the boy as best you can. Be sure he doesn't come into contact with the cruel, hard world. A concerned mom can be a great shock absorber.

4. Father: Let your son know he's a sissy because he likes art, music and poetry. Any kid who can't bloody a few noses and be outstanding in sports should be ashamed of himself.

5. Mother: Be critical of every girl your son looks at. After all, your son deserves the best, so don't let him settle for less. A young fellow needs a mother's guidance these days. There are so many tramps around.

6. Father: Let your son know early that you consider him a failure. Compare him with his older brother frequently. If you recognize that the second boy is vastly inferior, be sure to mention it. Don't let people think you're so stupid you don't know the difference.

7. Be prepared for the unhappiness that comes with having a disturbed, maladjusted child. And have some answers ready – such as "We can't understand it. We raised them the same way. It's something in the genes that makes some kids strange. --Born Second.

Dear Second Born: Now that you've decided where the blame lies, start working on the rest of your life. It began this morning.

Dear Ann Landers: We are a group of Winnipeg teenagers who wish to thank you for your forthright opinion on that weirdo-freak superstar who comes out loaded in jewelry, dressed like a dame and does this creepy number where she (?) chops off a doll's head and the make-believe blood oozes all over the stage. The psycho hangs himself at the close of the act.

I'll bet you caught plenty of heat from the lunatics who think that lousy noise is right on. Too bad they don't recognize hysterical emotionalism for what it is.

Entertainment should leave an audience with a deeper appreciation for beauty. We object to groups that use cheap sensationalism and shock stuff to mask a lack of talent. American and Canadian teenagers should rebel against junk at ridiculous prices by organizing clubs to stamp out violence, perversion and creepy groups.

For a generation that claims to be against war, against pollution, and says it wants to save the environment, why not start by eliminating the garbage from our own lives. The lyrics to some of the biggest hits are so dirty, I'm sure the adults don't know what the words mean.

We're glad you had the courage to print that letter, Ann. -- With You

Dear With: Thanks for writing. The mail ran 10 to one against us.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Orr

Orr-Hopkins

Miss Jana Rose Hopkins became the bride of Raymond Edwin Orr last Saturday at 2 p.m. in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hopkins of Sikeston. Orr is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Orr of Morehouse.

The bride's home was decorated with white gladiolus. The stairway was entwined with ivy and the archway was decorated with white gladiolus on pedestals.

The bride was escorted from the stairway to the arch by her father. The double- rinng ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alonzo Dale of Morehouse.

Mrs. Pam Blackman of Sikeston was the pianist, playing "A Time For Us" and the theme from "Love Story."

The bride's gown was a full length dress of nylon sheer. Acetate and nylon lace appliques trimmed the A-line skirt front and sheer illusion yoke. Ribbon trimmed with lace daisies accented the waistline and Juliet sleeves. The gown had a full chapel-length train.

She carried a bouquet of white daisy pom- poms with white ribbon streamers. Her shoulder- length veil was attached to a headpiece fashioned from flowers.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Carol Cobb of Madison, Ind., sister off the groom. She wore a blue A-line street length dress and carried a bouquet of white daisies with blue net and ribbon streamers.

Jack Cobb of Madison, Ind., brother- in- law of the groom, was best man.

Mrs. Hopkins chose for her daughter's wedding a blue double- knit sheath dress. Her corsage was of white carnation.

Mrs. Orr wore a dress of apricot crepe and her corsage was also white carnations.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held in the home. Gail Holt and Melissa HOlt, both of Sikeston, served.

The bride's table was overlaid with an off- white lace tablecloth with silver canandelabras and blue candles. The three- tiered cake was topped with a bride and groom.

Mrs. Orr is a 1971 graduate of Sikeston High School and is employed by Dr. Howard Johnson. Orr is a 1967 graduate of Morehouse High School and is employed by Malone and Hyde.

After a weekend trip the couple will live on Scott St. in Morehouse.

Revolution Preached At Explo 72 Is Love

DALLAS (AP) — The Rev. Bil Bright preached revolution — a revolution of love — Wednesday night from a podiun in the storied old Cotton Bowl.

"Love is the greatest power in the world," the San Bernardino, Calif., evangelist said. "There is no force known that can resist the supernatural agape, the love of God," the founder-president of the Campus Crusade for Christ said.

About 85,000 persons crammed into the stadium for the second night rally of Explo 72.

The Rev. Ed Hill of Los Angeles carried on with the love theme.

"We're going to take the world for Jesus Christ, and we're going to do it because we love one another and because we love Jesus Christ and because we would have all men know him who set us free."

Cheers from the predominantly youthful crowd went up at pronouncements of both Bright and Hill.

"Amen!

"Right on!"

"Praise the Lord!"

Only one incident marred the otherwise smoothly staged production.

Wednesday was Flag Day and a color guard representing each military service brought in flags.

Gen. Ralph Haines, commander of the U.S. Continental Army Command, told of Flag Day and the foundation of the U.S. Army and drew cheers when he told the crowd: "I have dedicated my life to Christ and have been completely baptized in the Holy Spirit."

A small group of anti-war protestors held up a banner which read: "Cross or Flag; Christ or Country," and chanted several times "Stop the War, Stop the War."

The chants, however, were largely ignored.

"This isn't the right place for that," one youth said. "This doesn't have anything to do with politics."

Billy Graham, co-host of the event with Bright, told the audience:

"I think what you are doing is spreading love all across Dallas-Fort Worth and north Texas. People are smiling at each other that haven't smiled in years."

Rev. W. L. Sneed

Preacher Of 90 Pastor For 53 Years

PORTAGEVILLE – The Rev. W. L. Sneed, pastor of Pleasant Grove No. 2 Missionary Baptist Church, is 90 years old and has pastored churches in or near Portageville for 38 years.

Born in Winona, Miss., in 1882, he grew up in Blain, Miss., he was converted and became a member in 1901 of New Hope Missionary Baptist Church, where he served as superintendent, Bible teacher, deacon and felt the call to preach.

He was ordained to preach in 1919 and pastored three churches in Mississippi and for a short time in Arkansas before moving to Missouri in 1934. He has since pastored six churches. A widower for seven years, the Rev. Mr. Sneed and his wife had three children -- two now living -- two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Gospel Series Opens Sunday

A series of Gospel meetings begin Sunday and continue June 24 at Shady Acres Church of Christ, 1440 Ables Road, according to Minister Manly Luscombe.

Services will be held each evening at 7:30 with A. L. (Tony) Carpenter of Maypearl, Tex. as speaker.

Questions will be welcomed at each service, Luscombe said.

Jewell To Host SBC Colleges

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — William Jewell College will host the annual meeting of the Association of Southern Baptist Colleges June 19-21.

Among those expected to attend are presidents, deans and other top administrative officers from 72 Baptist senior colleges, universities, junior colleges, seminaries, academies and Bible schools from coast to coast.

Rev. Grower Kagy

Kagy Keeps State Post

DEXTER — The Rev. Grover Kagy, director of missions for 42 churches and two missions that make up Cane Creek- Stoddard Baptist Association, was elected to a second three-year term as a trustee from the Missouri Baptist Convention to the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

This action took place at the Southern Baptist Convention last week in Philadelphia.

The Rev. M. E. Dark, pastor of First Baptist Church of Dexter, and the Rev. Mr. Kagy attended the convention with their wives.

Reject Censure

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An overwhelming majority of the 10,000 delegates attending the Southern Baptists Convention last week rejected a proposal to censor a set of books that give a liberal interpretation of the Bible.

The delegates also selected the first layman since 1959 to head the Southern Baptist Convention, which represents America's largest Protestant denomination. He is Owen Cooper, 64, of Yazoo City, Miss., who will succed the Rev. Carl E. Bates of Charlotte, N. C.

Lutheran State Convention Set

ST. LOUIS – Delegates at this year's convention of the Missouri District of The Lutheran Church- Missouri Synod will be talking a lot about other people's needs, especially civic ones, when they convene at Concordia Seminary next Monday through Wednesday.

The Rev. Herold G. Lohrman, pastor of Concordia Lutheran Church in Sikeston, will be among 750 delegates, representing congregations and ministries throughout the state, who have already received copies of the convention workbook containing major resolutions to be discussed. These include a proposal for child welfare reform in Missouri, encouragement to the U.S. Congress to act favorably on the amnesty question and additional aid to inner city schools.

The convention essayist, Prof. Martin Scharlemann of Concordia Seminary, will be giving the delegates principles and guidelines regarding the issues of war, amnesty and the general concept of government. It is a long-standing practice at Lutheran conventions to invite someone to deliver an essay on a pre- selected topic and discuss it after its reading.

In celebration of the church body's 125th anniversary and in coordination with the inter-denominational "Key '73" – a nation- wide evangelism emphasis-- the convention will have a chance to initiate its own program for what one spokesman calls "other people's greatest need: to get to know God in Christ."

The convention will open with a Festival Communion Service on Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m. in Immanuel Lutheran Church at St. Charles. The service will be broadcast over radio station KFUO (850). The Festival preachers will be the Rev. Dr. Roland Wiederaenders, first vice- president of the national church body who will be the official representative of the national synod to the district convention.

Scripture: Matthew 6:1-15

MEETING GOD THROUGH PRAYER

There were many hypocrites in the days of Jesus. There are many hypocrites in our churches today. Nothing reveals this situation more than a study of prayer.

Journalism has been described as a mirror of the people, The way we turn to prayer provides a mirror of our inter-thoughts. Unfortunately, there are times when we can't see what is really behind the mirror.

Our lesson today concerns the Lord's Prayer, which is recited daily by millions of Christians. It is the center of our devotional life, serving as a model for our personal prayers.

The Jewish piety during the first century revolved around alms, fasting, and prayer. Jesus, of course, had no objections to these concerns, but He did object to the hypocrisy and ostentation involved.

The Lord's Prayer is our greatest prayer. It involves the major elements in Christian living, including material and spiritual needs. Those persons who fear the Bible has become outdated can review this prayer and see that man's concerns have not changed. God is changeless.

God tells us that we pray best when we pray to Him in private. If we pray in public we should be honest and not pray for anything we wouldn't pray for in private. The repetition of pious phrases can become meaningless if we aren't careful. Each time we repeat the Lord's Prayer we need to "recharge" our thoughts.

Young Christians frequently ask why they shall pray to God who knows all of their thoughts and actions. Certainly He knows. He also realizes the psychological values we experience when we acknowledge our dependence upon Him.

Faith Baldwin once wrote that "All prayer is good--the formal, the informal, the talking aloud, the silent, the prayer at desk or table, watching a sunset or a storm. Prayer is reaching for a hand; prayer is sometimes a spontaneous and selfish petition. And it always reaches its destination."

Dr. Robert M. Brown, a Presbyterian theologian, says "prayer for many is like a foreign land. When we go there, we go as tourists. Like most tourists, we feel uncomfortable and out of place."

Unfortunately, many of us today have failed to outgrow our childhood concept of praying to God to satisfy an immediate need. We should, of course, ask God to help us in any way He sees fit. He alone knows our needs.

Prayer is a two-way communication. It represents a mystery in a way. Yet Jesus taught us how to pray. There are special prayers for special occasions. Each religious group has many such prayers for invocations, confession, thanksgiving, petition, and dedication.

Even in the Lord's Prayer we differ in our choice of words. Some say, "Forgive us our trespasses," while others say "forgive us our debts." Does it really make any difference in our ultimate plea for help from God?

So long as we pray for sincere needs, for integrity, courage, and wisdom, we will be following Christ's words. We should not waste time over trivial ends.

We acknowledge in this prayer our recognition of our indebtedness to God. We also admit that we have the right to ask for our daily needs, but only for the essentials. We also admit our debts to Him and confess that we should not be granted forgiveness unless we forgive others.

Prayer is our link with God. It is like all other means of communication. You understand only when you speak clearly and listen cautiously.

Christian Rossetti wrote a prayer asking for "Ears to hear, eyes to see, wills to obey, hearts to love."

Prayer will provide a means for all of us to become better Christians in closer communication with God.

First Christian Pastor Resigns

Rev. Durward Penry

The Rev. Durward Penry is one of four men selected nationwide to enter training starting in August at Kansas Neurological Institute in Topeka, Kan., thus leading to his resignation from his duties as pastor of First Christian Church.

He will continue as minister through July.

The Rev. Mr. Penry will be working in a chaplain's role with the mentally deficient and retarded in an attempt to give spiritual guidance and understanding to them and their parents.

He said he first became interested in this kind of work after World War II when he was a patient in a Marine hospital. Saying the key word is communication, the minister added he did not feel most chaplains were then well- trained in communicating with the patients.

After graduating from Phillips University in Enid, Okla., the Rev. Mr. Penry said he gave consideration to three fields -- teaching, social work and ministry -- in an attempt to decide which field would give him the preparation he would need to work with people.

Deciding ministry was the best route to the kind of work he hoped some day to do, he entered the graduate seminary at Phillips University, receiving his degree in 1955.

After serving in the ministry for 15 years, he feels he has been given a chance to fulfill a need he recognized in the 1940's.

The minister and his wife, whom he met at Phillips University and married in 1950, have five daughters. The oldest, Diane, 19, just completed her first year at her parents' alma mater, Phillips University. Sharon, 15, will be a junior in high school, Tamra, 13, will be in the ninth grade, Melanie, 11, in the seventh and Laurie, 7, will be in the second.

In his five years at First Christian Church in Sikeston, the Rev. Mr. Penry says his duties have covered, "quite a range."

"I've counseled teen-agers, families in times of illness or tragedy and have served with A.A. (Alcoholics Anonymous)," he added.

Before coming to Sikeston he served churches in El Dorado, Ark., and in Kansas.

About his future work he observed, "This will give me a chance to work to have people accept others for what they are ... a chance to break through barriers and develop the hidden potential in myself."

NOW IT IS UP TO US TO LET THE SUNSHINE OF PUBLIC HONESTY INTO OUR STATE GOVERNMENT

Due to a shortage of funds the Citizen's Lobby has been forced to stop its petition drive to collect the 92,000 signatures needed to place a proposed amendment before the voters which would require all votes of our elected representatives to be open to the public.

However, with over 43,000 signatures already acquired, the Citizen's Lobby is prepared to continue if we as private citizens are prepared to help.

"The amendment requires no more of public officials than what they should be doing already . . . being honest with the public. In America, we have a representative democracy. This simply means that we as private citizens don't have time to make the daily decisions of government . . . instead we elect a few who stand in for us and vote on these decisions. But when these few insist on conducting business in secret and refuse to disclose their votes on matters affecting our pocketbooks and the everyday lives of our families, then we've reached a situation in violation of the best interests of a representative democracy."

You can help by phoning in a pledge of financial support before MIDNIGHT THIS FRIDAY. If enough pledges are phoned to justify a minimum budget for completion of the drive, then the Citizen's Lobby will announce at a Saturday morning press conference that the people have spoken . . . the petition drive will continue . . . and the question of open government will be placed before the voters on the November ballot.

THE BIBLE

35. Joseph's Brothers go to Egypt the Second Time

When Joseph's brothers returned to their father's home in Canaan they told him of the "Lord of the Land" in Egypt, who was rough with them and how he had held one of the brothers as prisoner until they brought Benjamin to him to verify their story that they were not spies. They told of finding the money in their sacks of corn. Jacob said that it might have been an oversight. When all the corn they had brought out of Egypt was eaten Jacob told them that they would have to go again and buy more corn. And the brothers told their father again that Benjamin, the youngest, would have to go with them to save their lives.

Jacob would not hear of Benjamin going. He thought Benjamin's brother, Joseph, was dead. He couldn't stand the thought of losing Benjamin, who was also the son of Rachel, the wife whom he dearly loved. Finally Judah convinced his father that he would protect Benjamin and the old man let Benjamin go with them. But Jacob insisted that the brothers take presents to "The Lord of the Land" in Egypt, who they did not yet know was their brother Joseph. Jacob also told them to double the money that they were to pay for the corn. So once again the brothers set out for Egypt.

Pirates Waltz Into First Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Robertson's bat was singing in the rain, hitting high notes for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

His performance Thursday night helped Pittsburgh waltz back into first place in the National League East.

The beefy first baseman broke out of a wicked slump with three hits and four runsbatted-in as the Pirates grabbed a rain-delayed doubleheader from the San Francisco Giants 4-1 and 9-7 and nosed a half-game in front of the idle New York Mets.

"One night isn't going to change everything as far as the slump goes," said Robertson, who was hitless in 21 appearances before Thursday's second game. "I haven't had my timing ... and I didn't have it tonight.

"But it's nice to know the fans have been behind me all the way. They were cheering me even before I got to the plate. And it's got to make you want to come through."

After Robertson drove in a run with a sacrifice fly in the first game, he collected his first hit of the night with a tworun single in the first inning of the nightcap. Then he delivered a run-scoring single in the seventh. Robertson also singled in the third, keeping alive a Pirate rally that scored two runs.

The Chicago Cubs defeated the San Diego Padres 10-1 in Thursday's only other National League game. In the American League, the New York Yankees defeated the Chicago White Sox 8-1; the Kansas City Royals turned back the Boston Red Sox 13-9 and the Cleveland Indians topped the California Angels 1-0.

The Pirates started the night's work a half-game behind the Mets, but climbed back into first place by percentage points after their firstgame victory fashioned on the combined pitching of Nelson Briles and Dave Giusti.

In the nightcap, the Pirates wiped out a 1-0 Giants' lead with a three-run first and never trailed thereafter.

Billy Williams celebrated his 34th birthday with two home runs as Chicago crushed San Diego.

The veteran outfielder ignited a six-run fourth inning with a two-run blast, then launched his 11th homer his next time up in the fifth inning when the Cubs scored three runs.

"I don't think I ever hit a home run before on my birthday," said Williams, who collected the 329th and 330th of his illustrious 12-year career.

Bill Hands improved his wonlost record to 6-2 with a fivehitter.

Bobby Murcer's three-run homer in the third inning sent ex-teammate Stan Bahnsen to an early shower and New York went on to an easy victory over Chicago. The Yankees clipped Bahnsen for a single run in the second on the first of two sacrifice flies by Bernie Allen before Murcer chased Bahnsen with his shot in the third inning. Horace Clarke later added a three-run homer for the Yankees.

Five double plays helped Fritz Peterson notch his fifth victory in 13 decisions after an 0-6 start.

John Mayberry knocked in six runs with a homer and a pair of two-run doubles, leading Kansas City past Boston in a wild baseball game flushed with 32 hits.

Sports Brief

TRIPLE SUCCESS

Only 11 players in major league history have led their league in home runs, runs batted in and batting average in the same season. Ted Williams and Rogers Hornsby each did it twice, Williams with the Boston Red Sox in 1942 and 1947, Hornsby with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1922 and 1925. The most recent "triple crown" winner was Carl Yastrzemski of the Red Sox, who accomplished the feat in 1967.

Onofrio Linked With Gambling

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Al Onofrio, head football coach at the University of Missouri, and four of his assistants hold stock in parimutuel horse racetracks in New Mexico according to racing commissions records, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat newspaper reports.

The combined investment of the coaches is about $12,000.

"I never figured it as being associated with gambling," Onofrio said.

The Globe-Democrat said others holding shares are Clay Cooper, Prentice Gautt, Vincent M. Tobin and Victor Rapp, who recently left the Missouri coaching staff.

Fortuna Corp., the firm in which the coaches hold stock, owns two tracks.

Onofrio owns 375 shares of Fortuna, or about $2,625 worth, the newspaper reported.

Attendance Up A Bit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When baseball's major league players conducted their unprecedented strike at the start of the season, there was concern that fans would turn their backs on the national pastime.

Well, they haven't. In fact, attendance is up a bit, according to a survey by Harry Simmons, an administrative assistant to Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The results, released Wednesday, of the survey covering attendance through the first nine weeks of the season offer two basic conclusions: the fans are still coming out to the ballpark but attendance lost by the strike will hurt the owners.

The survey compares playing dates through June 11 of this season with the corresponding number of dates in 1971, eliminating the attendance lost during the strike, which wiped out 84 games.

For those parallel periods, major league attendance increased by 126,867—1.6 per cent—meaning more fans have seen games in person this year since the strike ended than went to the same span of games last year.

But overall attendance has been hard hit by the strike, the survey shows. Because of the lost playing dates, 1,419,240 fewer fans have been to a game this year.

Even if the 1.6 percent increase holds for the rest of the season, baseball can expect to have a drop of about 1.2 million for the entire year.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Ten National Basketball Association players, and perhaps one more, could be socked with possible fines or suspensions or both today when the league's board of governors concludes its two-day meetings.

The players in question are those who participated in the unsanctioned all-star game against the rival American Basketball Association May 25 at Uniondale, N.Y.

During the game, the NBA used 10 players—Wilt Chamberlain and Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles, John Havlicek of Boston, Nate Archibald of Cincinnati, Bob Love of Chicago, Paul Silas and Connie Hawkins of Phoenix, Archie Clark of Baltimore, Oscar Robertson of Milwaukee and Bob Lanier of Detroit, voted the game's Most Valuable Player.

And an 11th player, Dave DeBusschere of New York, was in uniform but did not play because he still was recuperating from a rib injury suffered in the NBA playoffs.

Section 17 of the NBA's standard player contract forbids players from participaitng in exhibition games without the approval of their owners. There have been no reports of any players, except possibly Robertson, seeking permission to play.

Last year, when the two leagues met in their first postseason all-star game, the NBA also threatened to fine or suspend its participating players. But no action was ever taken.

This year, however, there appears to be a stronger feeling for some kind of punishment.

Each of the members of this year's winning NBA team received $3,000—and there is the possibility they could be fined that much by the owners. Should the owners decide to take such action, a rebellious situation might develop from the players' association, headed by Robertson.

While the owners are debating what action to take against the players, they also are expected to discuss the Julius Erving case.

Cape Signs Alonzo Love

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Another high school football player has decided to continue his "career" in the sport at Southeast Missouri State College.

There's nothing much unusual about that, except that he is Alonzo Love, "in our estimation just the finest freshman prospect in the state," according to Indian head coach Tom Thrower.

Love, a product of Vashon High School in St. Louis, rolled up almost too many athletic honors to mention during the past season.

He was named to the All-City, All-District, All-Public High League, All-Metro and All-State teams.

"A lot of major universities tried to recruit him," said Thrower, "and we feel very fortunate."

Love, at 6-2 and 190 pounds, played split end at Vashon. He runs the 100-yard dash in 9.9.

Bats Ring In L.L.

Little League action resumed Thursday night in all three leagues.

In the National, A & B Leasing walked over the Lions 8-0 and Pizza Inn put nine men across the plate to defeat Security National 9-4.

The Brothers Club fell victim to a batting barrage in a 12-1 loss dished out by Kingsway Plaza in the first game of Musial League play. Nunnelee demolished Hart's Bread 12-3 in the second contest.

In the American League, First National ran in 17 runs in four innings of play to make quick end of Bridger with seven points. Jenkins downed Flower Basket 5-4 in the following game.

A & B used a second inning rally to destroy any hopes of victory for the Lions, putting six men across the plate in the one segment of play. Shortstop Alberts paced the A & B squad with a second inning double.

Pizza Inn gathered forces in the fifth and seventh to score all of its runs in those two innings. Left fielder Marks homered in the seventh to lead the attack, with third baseman Smith assisting with doubles. The winning pitcher was Love, handing the loss to Wilkerson.

The Brothers were unable to halt the first inning rally by Kingsway that brought in nine men. Kingsway excelled from the plate all during the game with 12 hits to three for Brothers. For Kingsway, catcher Williams, and for Brothers, first baseman Howard, tripled to lead their squads. Also for the winners, first baseman Leonard, winning pitcher Williams and third baseman Crenshaw had doubles.

Tracy Glaus led his team to victory with 11 strikeouts to take the win from the mound. Danny Smith was handed the loss, as Hart's Bread fell to Nunnelee. Glaus slammed a home run in the first inning accompanied by a third inning homer slammed by Smith to lead the team. Second baseman Ratledge followed with a triple and a double. Third baseman Bom also tripled in a second inning connection. Danny Smith had a triple for Harts and Rick Hammock had a double.

In the American League, First National had a scoring fiasco in the first, third and fourth innings with six, five and six runs scored respectively with 17 men in all crossing the plate. Longstreet, the catcher, led with a double. Catcher Holifield for Bridger had a double.

It was a battle from the mound in the second game with winning pitcher Alsop and Overby, the loser, throwing 14 strikeouts apiece. Second baseman Tidwell had a triple for Jenkins and catcher Greer hit a double for Flower Basket.

In Wednesday night Little League action, National League did play despite the weather.

Moundsman Wasson pitched Lewis Furniture to a 10-2 victory over the Kiwanis squad and losing hurler Dewitt.

In the second game, winning pitcher Cloud led his team to a 5-4 win over Legion. Greer was the pitcher for Legion.

Hart's Rally Drops Optimist, 4-3

Elk's Club and Hart's Standard came away winners last night in senior Babe Ruth action. Elks downed Leible Implement in the opener, 8-5. Hart's utilized two walks and back-to-back sacrifices to send the winning run home in the last half innning in its 4-3 victory over Optimist Club.

Dyer paced Leible at the plate with hree hits, including a last inning triple. Cather Ward connected for two safeties.

Colwick's three hits and Evan's two blasts aided the Elk's hitting department. Mitchell went the distance for the win.

In the nightcap, the Optimists knotted the score at 3-all in the sixth before losing in the seventh to Hart Standard's last inning heroics.

Hewitt and Saulters walked in the final inning before Wake and Luber sacrified the runners around for the winning run.

Saulters blasted the only three Hart's safeties, while teammate Blankenship picked up the win

"Protect Witnesses" Says Bond

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Christopher "Kit" Bond, state auditor and GOP gubernatorial candidate, Thursday called for witness immunity laws in Missouri as a way to crack organized crime.

Speaking at the Concord Township Republican Club, Bond pointed to the recent St. Louis grand jury investigation into the murder of Edward Steska, St. Louis steamfitter union boss, as example of the need for the law. He said without it grand juries — one of the most effective tools against crime — are hampered.

"It is impossible to obtain testimony from a witness who fears subsequent prosecution as a result of later prosecution of a witness for what he tells a grand jury," Bond said.

A witness immunity law would waive prosecution by the state on evidence that could be self incriminating to the witness.

Eight Die In SeMo Accidents In May

POPLAR BLUFF — Troop E of the Missouri State Highway Patrol reports a total of 323 accidents in the Bootheel during May, bringing the total number of accidents in 1972 to 1,337. Fatalities during the month numbered eight for a total of 60, 230 were injured in May and 700 have been injured in 1972 in the 15 counties comprising Troop E.

Breakdown of the local six-county area is:

Dunklin County had 33 accidents during May and a total of 135 to date; one fatality occurred and 12 were injured.

Mississippi County recorded 25 accidents during May and 100 in 1972; one was killed last month and 19 were injured.

There were 26 accidents in New Madrid County during May and a total of 128 this year; nine were injured and one was killed.

Pemiscot County had 25 accidents and 111 to date; 13 were injured and three killed.

Scott County recorded 18 accidents, bringing the yearly total to 83; 13 were injured and one was killed.

Thirty-three accidents were reported in Stoddard County during May and 146 to date; 13 were injured and two killed.

Spradling Wins Globe Service Award

JEFFERSON CITY — Sen. Albert M. Spradling, Jr. (Dem.), Cape Girardeau, was among eight Missouri legislators who received Globe-Democrat meritorious service awards Tuesday for their work in 1971-72 sessions of the 76th General Assembly.

A four- time recipient of the award, Spradling was cited for his work on legislation concerning the governmental reorganization amendment, an attempt at streamlining some state agencies.

Spradling has served the 27th district as senator for 21 years and is seeking re-election. He will become the senior senator when Sen. J. F. 'Pat' Patterson retires at the end of this term.

King Would Eliminate Welfare To Employable

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — State Rep. E. J. "Bus" King, R-Clayton, GOP candidate for governor, will call tonight for cutting off welfare to all ablebodied people.

In a speech prepared for a dinner meeting at the Hotel Robidoux, King will outline what he calls a new approach to the problem of welfare.

Only the elderly, the blind and the disabled would get direct welfare payments under King's plan and he would increase those checks.

"We are on the verge of a taxpayers' revolt," King said, predicting that such a revolt would jeopardize educational, mental health and environmental control programs as well as welfare.

"Our basic mistake has been in assuming that we can eliminate poverty by giving away money," he said. "Instead of helping people find a way to take care of themselves, we have simply continued to give them welfare payments."

King's five-point program would pay private industry "a sum equal to what the individual had received from the welfare program" for training indigents. King would also provide state-paid vocational training tuition and continued welfare payments until the recipient is out of school.

The state, cities and counties could also participate in the program of hiring the needy in King's proposal, but welfare assistance "would be computed on an hourly basis and paid only for the actual hours worked."

King said such a program "would cosy no more than the present welfare system, but society would receive something in return and the individual would be made to understand that he cannot receive payments without work."

The plan calls for free daycare centers in urban areas and baby-sitter allowances in small towns for mothers of preschool children working for wages below "a specified income level."

King pledged, if elected governor, he would put the plan into operation.

"Voice Of Labor" Will Protest Vietnam War

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Harold Gibbons, intern ational vice president of the Teamsters Union, says he was told in Hanoi earlier this year that North Vietnam will agree to a ceasefire and begin returning American prisoners of war just as soon as the United Staes sets a withdrawal date and abides by it.

Gibbons went to Hanoi in March with two other American labor leaders and met with Le Duc Tho, chief of the North Vietnamese peace delegation at Paris. He declined to discuss the meeting, saying he wanted to relay the information to Henry Kissinger, aide to President Richard M. Nixon.

The union leader disclosed the Hanoi offer Thursday as he was discussing plans for a national meeting next month of a new group called Labor For Peace.

Gibbons said a meeting of the group in St. Louis June 23-24 is expected to attract about 1,000 persons, including Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Mrs. Coretta King.

He said the purpose was to "raise labor's voice in protest to the continuation of the Vietnam War."

Judge Puts Pillory In Courtroom

FULTON, Mo., June 15 (AP) - The equipment in Callaway County Magistrate Court now includes a pillory and stock.

Judge Hugh P. Williamson swears he is going to ask for authority to resort to the colonial-style punishment. The judge also is among those who sweat that Callaway County has been free and independent of the United States since it seceded in 1862.

"A pillory confines the head and hands." Williamson said. "A stock confines the hands and feet."

He climbed into his combination of them to demonstrate.

Passerbys in colonial times were permitted to throw eggs, mud, sticks and stones at the confinee, and his sentence could range from several hours to several days.

"It could deteriorate quickly from uncomfortable to intolerable," Williamson said. "Our ancestors were not soft on criminals."

The judge hopes the presence of the pillory and stock in his courtroom will remind transgressors of this.

He also hopes it will persuade them of his great compassion.

Judge Williamson brushes aside any reference to the Constitution and cruel and unusual punishment by saying:

"The Kington of Callaway is a strange and unusual place, and the Constitution of the United States has not application here anyway since we seceded from the Union in 1862 and have been out of it ever since and are extremely glad of it."

Ross Hunter Thrilled Making 'Lost Horizon' Musical Version

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Talking to Ross Hunter about his picture, "Lost Horizon," is something like talking to a teen-ager about his new car. He's so excited about it the words come tumbling out in a delightful spurt of enthusiasm.

Of course, there's a little difference in the overall cost of the project. "Lost Horizon" will come in at somewhere between six and seven million dollars. It will probably be the biggest film shot in Hollywood this year. But Hunter talks about it as though it was his new toy.

But he's always been somewhat different from the average producer. Ross is the kind of man who takes his date Nancy Sinatra Sr. out to the movies and stands in line with everybody else. He isn't one to throw his weight around.

So his excitement about his baby, "Lost Horizon," is predictable. To make a musical version of the James Hilton novel has been his long-time dream.

He's always loved the book and has turned to it for help in times of trouble. One such time came nine years ago when he says he was going through a bad time. He found solace in "Lost Horizon" and decided then that he wanted to make the movie.

He was at Universal at the time. He knew Columbia owned the rights to the property. He called them and they said, sure, he could do it — provided he switched to Columbia. He couldn't do that, so, as he says, "the dream exploded."

A couple of years ago he had another seige of problems and again turned to his dog-eared, underlined copy of the book. He says he decided then that he had to get away from Universal "if I wanted to preserve my sanity." He had many offers, including one from Columbia, and took that one because it included doing "Lost Horizon."

The first decision he made was to get Burt Bacharach to write the music, with his lyricist, Hal David. Burt Bacharach Sr., the columnist, and his wife, Irma, had always had Ross over for dinner whenever the producer went to New York so he's known the young composer for years.

But Burt and Hal did not know the property. Ross had them over and screened the original movie starring the late Ronald Colman. They made the deal 24 hours later.

Casting was a problem. Everyone wanted to be in it. It was like a jig-saw puzzle made out of gold. Ross has done a great job—he has a cast including Peter Finch, Liv Ullmann, Sally Kellerman, George Kennedy, Michael York, Olivia Hussey, Sir John Gielgud, Bobby Van. Charles Boyer portrays the high lama.

He had some static from Oriental groups when he cast Gielgud as Chang. They wanted an Oriental actor. But Hunter says they had obviously not read the book —Chang is half-English and Oxford-educated.

At first there was a part written in for Helen Hayes. When she couldn't do it the part was taken out. That didn't stop a lot of actresses —including Ruth Gordon— from clamoring to get the part.

The script, taken from the original book, has been updated to the '70s. Hunter believes Hilton must have had some form of ESP because he says it is even timelier now than when it was written in the early '30s.

You'll be hearing the lovely Bacharach-David songs a lot now, long before the film is released for Easter '73.

PUBLIC NOTICES

CITY OF SIKESTON, MO.
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2" hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6" soil cement base with concrete curb and gutters on William Street from Carroll Street west to join William Street in Cole's Subdivision in accordance with plans and specifications,

In the city of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the council of the city of Sikeston, state of Missouri, as follows: section 1: that the council of the city of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the city of Sikeston. section 2: that the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. section 3: that the estimated cost of the improvement is $5.30 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. section 4: that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the state of Missouri and the ordinances of the city of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the city council the general revenue fund of the city of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. section 5: that any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the state of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the industrial commission of Missouri. section 6: that the city clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the city of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 5th day of June, 1972. Approved: Frank Ferrell, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

1. In Memoriam

In loving memory of my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Friend, Sister & Brother-In-law, Mr. and Mrs. Darryl Robertson and children, Lynette Gail, Terri Leigh, who passed away June 16, 1968.

Although the Golden Sun has set and their feet on earth no longer trod may their names be ever written in the Autograph of God.

Sadly missed by daughter & family.

2. Card of Thanks

Sincere appreciation to the neighbors, friends and Rev. Wade Paris for their kindness shown to us in their flowers, food, cards, and prayers. In memory of our beloved wife and mother, Minnie E. Curtner.

We wish to thank the many neighbors and friends during our recent bereavement at the loss of our Mother, Josephine Shell. Thank you for the flowers, Rev. Paul Bynum of Fredricktown, Mo. assisted by Rev. Don Heightman of Mathews Church of the Nazarene. May God bless each and everyone of you.

The Family of Josephine Shell.

Bradley Honored By Dedication At Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — A corridor of the Pentagon building was dedicated Wednesday to General of the Army Omar N. Bradley, a former Missourian.

Bradley, 79, enthusiastically reviewed the honor guard at the ceremonies and received a 19-gun salute.

The corridor, outside the Joints Chiefs of Staff area, has been redecorated with plaques, photographs, medals and flags depicting Bradley's life from his Missouri boyhood through West Point and three wars.

$3 Million Seized In Bogus Bills

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — About $3 million in counterfeit bills has been seized at Pine Bluff, and nine persons were arrested in Little Rock and Pine Bluff in connection with the bogus money.

Harold Duke, special agent in charge of the Secret Service in Arkansas, said Tuesday the money represented probably one of the largest seizures of counterfeit bills in the country.

Duke said all of the money, which wa in denominations of $50 and $100, was seized at one time and apparently none had gotten into circulation. He said, however, the passing of counterfeit money had been active in the state, particularly in the last three weeks.

He said he could not say what the origin of the money was. Duke said bills of the type confiscated were first noticed in Little Rock and shortly thereafter in Pine Bluff.

Duke said no plates or printing equipment had been found.

Duke identified those arrested as Arthur James Jr., Dora Ann Frost and Jack Rheuark, all of Little Rock; Troy Stinson Jr., Mary Hathaway Johnson, Jerry Roberts, Perry Williams, all of Pine Bluff, and Ricky Patterson and Wayne Freeman, both of Benton. He said they were taken into custody this week and last week in Pine Bluff and Little Rock.

Hike Pushes Youth Jobs Above Million

WASHINGTON — The supplemental appropriation signed by President Nixon in Moscow has raised the number of summer jobs for youth to the all-time high of 1,201,400, Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson has announced.

This is 220,000 more summer jobs than were available for youth last summer.

The funds made available through this appropriation will bring the total to be spent this summer to $377.6 million, also a record high, and $85 million more than in any previous year, Hodgson explained.

Most of the federally supported jobs for youth this summer will be in the Neighborhood Youth Corps. The NYC summer program is providing nine weeks of employment for 740,222 disadvantaged boys and girls 14 through 21 years old. The jobs pay $1.60 an hour for work in community service activities.

The supplemental appropriation not only sets up a larger- than- ever summer program, but it still provides a record amount of lead time for local planners. Local governments and agencies were given initial allocations in March to help plan for the summer. The supplemental funds are also that much ahead of previous years availability, Hodgson pointed out.

The $377.6 million in Federal funds will be spent through four programs providing 865,322 jobs. The remaining 336,000 jobs will be provided mainly in the private sector by business and industry, without Federal financial support.

Professor Gets Research Grant

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) An associate professor of economics at the University of MissouriColumbia has received a $20,600 grant for research on population growth.

Dr. W. Whitney Hicks will pursue the assignment at Standford University during the coming school year. It involves contrasting areas in Mexico, some of them with declining birth rates. His objective is to determine the economic cause and effects of population growth or shrinkage.

What's The Law?

The Case Of The Irate Motel Owner

By Jack Strauss, LL. B.

After buying a motel from Mr. Hoople, Chester optimistically intended to sit back and do nothing but ring up the profits. The only wringing he did, however, was with his hands. Because, soon after he bought the motel, Mr. Hoople erected a new one directly across the highway that absorbed passing motorists like a sponge.

The result? Chester's business dropped like it had been pushed off a cliff and he sued Mr. Hoople for the sharp dip in his profits.

"After I paid that chiseler Hoople a small fortune for the motel," complained Chester in court, "he had no right to erect a new one and go into competition with me. He's now drawing all the customers while I can't ever draw gophers.

"He's just a cry baby," was Mr. Hoople's answer. "The fact is I didn't sell him a monopoly in the area. If I didn't open up the new motel, someone else would have done it. It was a perfect spot. Consequently, Chester's got no cause to complain."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Mr. Hoople pay damages for opening a new motel across the road?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that since Chester's deed to control motel contained no promises from Mr. Hoople, expressed or implied, that Mr. Hoople would not compete with him in the motel business after the sale, Mr. Hoople was free to do so. (Based upon a 1957 Kentucky Supreme Court Decision)

Clean Water Suit Works

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Clean Water Commission took its first legal action Friday in Wright City under the new clean water law passed by the legislature and apparently it worked.

An injunction suit filed in Warren County Circuit Court sought to prohibit Wright City from dumping untreated sewage discharge into Peruque Creek. A $5,000 penalty was asked, plus $617.98 to pay for fish killed from the city's waste stabilization lagoon on June 6.

The case began when Wright City officials drained the lagoon into the creek to repair piping on the bottom of the stabilization pond. An estimated 1,179 fish were killed in a mile and a half of the stream below the lagoon outfall, state Department of Conservation reports show.

Since then, a water commission spokesman said, the city has closed the valve to the creek, but no comment has been made by the city.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

I find then a law, that, when I would do good, evil is present with me. (Romans 7:21)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, our heavenly Father, for Thy redemptive love. Help us to lose ourselves in devotion to Thee and in dedication to the work of redemptive love. This we ask in the name of our Redeemer, who taught us to pray, "Our Father, who art in heaven . . . Amen."

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, June 16, the 168th day of 1972. There are 198 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1963, the first woman space traveler, Vanetina Tereshkova, was launched into orbit from a base in the Soviet Union.

On this date:

In 1774, the first settlement in Kentucky, Harrodsburg, was founded.

In 1858, Abraham Lincoln said in a speech in Springfield, Ill., "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

In 1897, the Alaska gold rush began with news of a rich strike on Bonanaza Creek.

In 1920, the Council of the League of Nations held its first public meeting at St. James Palace in London.

In 1940, the French Maginot Line was abandoned to the Germans in World War II.

In 1960, President Dwight D. Eisenhower canceled a visit to Japan after anti-American rioting.

Ten years ago: Three feuding princes in Laos were attempting to end their dispute and form a coalition government.

Five years ago: Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin met French President Charles de Gaulle in Paris to enlist his support for the Soviet campaign to force Israel to withdraw from Arab territory captured in the six-day war.

One year ago: the U.S. Senate voted 55 to 42 against a plan calling for a total American troop withdrawal from Vietnam by the end of the year.

Today's birthday: Former opera star Helen Traubel is 68.

PUXICO -- Frank Cookman Roberts, 73, was found dead in his home Wednesday on Puxico Route Two by neighbors. He had been dead about one week of an apparent heart attack.

Born May 1, 1899 in Dresden, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Roberts. He lived alone. He was employed several years in Buckner on a pipeline construction project. He was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Buckner.

There are no known survivors.

Graveside services will be held Saturday at 11 a.m. in Puxico Cemetery with the Rev. Liston Smith officiating.

Watkins and Sons Funeral Home will be in charge.

LEWE C. PRESLEY

DEXTER — Lewe Christopher Presley, 64, died in this home Thursday.

He was born July 2, 1907 at Harrisburg, Ark. He married Annie Clark on Nov. 30, 1929. He moved from Arkansas to Essex in 1946, where he lived until 1968 when he moved to Dexter. He was a retired farmer and was a member of Olive Branch General Baptist Church near Essex.

Survivors include his widow; one brother, Walter A. Presley of Corning, Ark.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at Watkins and Sons Funeral Home with the Rev. D. R. Elledge officiating.

Burial will be in Dexter Cemetery.

Visitation will begin after noon Saturday.

LESLIE TIMMONS

EAST PRAIRIE — Survivors of Leslie Timmons, 69, who died Wednesday, are his widow, Mrs. Wilma Stephens Timmons of St. Louis; one son, Leslie David Timmons of St. Louis; and one nephew, Teddy Herndon of Cairo, Ill.

GLENN ISAAC DAVIS

ILLMO- Glenn Isaac Davis, 54, died this morning at a Mt. Vernon hospital where he had been a patient since Feb. 17.

Davis was born Oct. 30, 1917 at Benton. An auto mechanic, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Otto Davis.

He is survived by one daughter, Miss Barbara Davis of California; three brothers Cletus Davis of Scott City, Clyde Davis of Bluford, Ill., and Harold Davis of Spokane, Wash.; two sisters, Mrs. Gladys Yates and Mrs. Myrtle Wetzel of DuQuoin, Ill.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Sunday at Amic-Burnette Funeral Home in Illmo with the Rev. Clay Brooks of the Assembly of God Church officiating.

Burial will be at Lightner Cemetery near Illmo.

Visitation will begin after noon Saturday.

Two Arrested On Charges Of Flag Theft

Police today announced the arrest of two teen-agers on charges stemming from the theft of two flags from the home and campaign headquarters of C. F. Cline, candidate for the Democratic nomination for state representative from the 159th district.

Lt. Leonard Campbell said today that David Ervin Davis, 18, of Morley was arrested for making a falst statement to police during the investigation of the theft. Campbell declined to reveal what Davis said.

Also arrested was James Earl Young, 17, of Parma for receiving stolen property. He bought the flags, police say.

The flags were stolen April 12 from 310 Moore. They were discovered two weeks later in an apartment at 304 Heath. Police were called to Heath street because a car was blocking a driveway. They were told that the man who had parked the car had entered the apartment. Police knocked on the door but no one answered, although people could be seen inside the rooms.

The owner of the building let police in and they found four juveniles and the flags.

Wilderness Area Hearing Slated

MINNEAPOLIS -- A public hearing on classifying 1,705 acres of Mingo National Wildlife Refuge in Wayne and Stoddard Counties as a national wilderness area is scheduled June 28 at Puxico, the federal Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife announced today.

The public hearing will start at 7:30 p.m. June 28 at the elementary school in Puxico. Oral or written statements may be submitted at the hearing or written comments may be sent to the bureau's Regional Director, BSF&W, Federal Building, Fort Snelling, Twin Cities, Minnesota 55111 by July 28.

A map and other information on the Mingo wilderness proposal is available from the Refuge Manager, Mingo National Wildlife Refuge, Route One, Puxico, Missouri, 63960, or from the Bureau's regional director at the Twin Cities address given above.

The proposal includes all of the present natural area situated in the southwest sector of the refuge and suggests a change in classification for this portion of the refuge.

Located one mile west of Puxico in an abandoned channel of the Mississippi River, this naturally wild area was approved for purchase as a National Wildlife Refuge by the Migratory Bird Commission in June, 1944.

About the turn of the century, logging was in full swing in Mingo Swamp. Soon afterwards, ditching and draining took place to turn the swamp into marginal farmland. This venture eventually failed.

Since the beginning of the refuge in 1947, native trees and other plants have again prospered. State size records for eight kinds of trees are now found on the refuge, and wildlife such as wild turkey have reestablished themselves.

The refuge contains two major waterfowl impoundments, a network of dikes and roads for operations and myriads of wildlife. Many moist soil and cultivated crop units have been developed to provide food for wildlife.

Deer, raccoon, ducks and geese are commonly seen by visitors and photographers. Wildlife related tours, fishing, picnicking and hunting are the most popular public uses on the refuge. The new visitor center is expected to increase these uses when completed late next year.

May Relief In MissCo Costs $198,791

EAST PRAIRIE -- Welfare expenditures in Mississippi County during May totaled $198,791 on 2,361 cases, including 1,896 children and 105 nursing home patients. These figures were confirmed by Mrs. Agnes Cunningham, Mississippi county welfare director.

Aid to dependent children accounted for $79,123 of the total on a caseload of 707.

Old age assistance figures totaled $83,956 in 1,170 cases.

General relief to 223 cases totaled $15,611.

Permanent and total disability benefits totaled $15,301.

Forty- eight received aid to the blind for expenditures of $4,800.

Shoplifter Law Copies Offered To Merchants

Police have copies of the Missouri shoplifter's law for distribution to Sikeston merchants, Lt. Leonard Campbell announced today.

Campbell said businessmen can either write for or pick up the copies in person at the police station. Campbell said a copy of the law may help a businessman better understand his rights under the law.

Line Plans Shelved

ADVANCE -- A proposal to lay water lines in the Garner and Stilts Addition here has been tabled by the City Council until more bids are submitted.

The following motions were made and carried: to accept Harold Stilts' bid for city hall air conditioning provided it is less than the other bid presented; to set deadline for merchants' licenses on July 31; to erect two- hour parking signs between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. from South street north on Garret to Benton street, and also on Maple avenue west to Blair street, and to go ahead with plans for a preliminary report on expansion or construction of a new water plant.

Building permits were granted Lillian Thompson for a carport and to Lawrence Matney for a workshop, and a residence in Garner and Stilts Addition, lot 13, was approved.
